6,000,000 WOMEN REFUSED BALLOT BY THE COMMONS

Measure to Extend Suffrage in Great Britain Beaten by Votes of the Irish Nationalists.

MEASURE WAS FOUGHT BY PREMIER ASQUITH

Even Those Who Favored Extension of Suffrage Denounced Militancy — Vote Was 266 to 219.

London, May 6.—The fate of the woman's suffrage bill was sealed tonight by the votes of more than fifty Irish nationalists, who voted against it. The bill, whereby it was sought to enfranchise 6,000,000 women, was rejected by a majority of 47; the vote stood 266 to 219.

Whether there is any chance that the present parliament will pass a bill of more limited character may be doubted. Possibly the nationalists fear that if they allow a woman's franchise bill to pass the second reading it will lead to a parliamentary struggle, which would not unlikely end in dissolution of parliament before the home rule bill becomes a law. Furthermore, the debate today proved that the militant policy of the suffragists has done the cause great harm as far as parliament is concerned. The conciliation bill of last session was rejected by only a small majority compared with the Dickinson bill under discussion today. Previous bills, giving some measure of enfranchisement to women, have passed the second reading, although they never survived subsequent stages.

Angered By Militancy.

Recent police disclosures of acts of incendiarism planned by the militants far surpassing in magnitude anything heretofore attempted, and the burning of St. Catherine's church at Hatcham today undoubtedly influenced many members to vote against the bill.

Announcement of the result of the vote was greeted by cheers from all sides of the house. The debate, which on Monday proceeded with extraordinary apathy, was today characterized by intensity and brilliant speeches. The house was crowded and pervaded with an atmosphere of electrical excitement. The strangers' galleries were packed and many anxious faces peerefro from behind the grille-guarded gallery devoted to women.

peered from behind the grille-guarded of the opposition, nor A. J. Balfour voted in the division. Among the ministers who voted against the bill were Premier Asquith, Reginald McKenna, Lewis Harcourt, J. E. B. Seely, Winston Spencer Churchill and C. F. Hobhouse.

Supporters of the bill included Sir Edward Gray, David Lloyd-George, Rufus Isaacs, Augustine Birrell, Sidney Buxton, C. F. G. Masterman, Sir J. A. Simon and F. D. Acland.

Asquith Opposed Bill.

In opposing the bill Premier Asquith said he would resign if his colleagues in the cabinet ever suggested that they did not feel justified in following a government the head of which was opposed to them.

When debate was resumed this afternoon the premier defended the government's course, saying it was consistent with best traditions of British statesmanship.

He regretted that he found himself at variance from his colleagues on the suffrage question, and greatly as he would regret severing himself from the prosecution of other great causes, he would lay down his office if his colleagues ever insisted that they did not feel justified in following a gov-

NATION'S BANKERS MAY GATHER HERE

Every Effort Will Be Made to Secure 1914 Meeting of American Bankers' Association for Atlanta.

Through the Atlanta chamber of commerce and the Atlanta Clearing House association and other official bodies, every effort will be made to secure for this city the 1914 convention of the American Bankers' association, which meets this year in Boston. The first official steps were taken yesterday, when John K. Ottley, a member of the executive council of the association, which is now in session in Briarcliff, N. Y., was authorized by the Atlanta Clearing House association to extend a formal invitation to the association to make Atlanta its convention place.

Atlanta bankers and all others who have knowledge of the association are enthusiastic over the prospects of landing the affair, and believe that it will prove one of the most beneficial conventions that could be brought to Georgia.

There are now over 13,000 members of the association, which probably controls more capital than any other organization in the country, and it is to get these men to Atlanta and get them interested in the business affairs of the city that the Atlantans are working.

Big Benefit to City.

"We are going after that convention good and strong," said Ivan E. Allen, president of the convention bureau of the chamber of commerce, Tuesday, in discussing the action of the clearing house. "Members of the chamber realize that there is no other convention that could prove of more solid benefit to the city and to the state than this one. In fact, the benefits will be felt throughout Georgia and this section.

We promised Mr. Ottley when he left here that we would do all in our power to aid him and his associates, and he was to look around and determine the feasibility of extending the invitation.

"The next meeting is already scheduled for Boston, and the 1915 meeting will be in San Francisco, leaving 1914 an open date, and we feel certain that Atlanta can secure it. We had been acting quietly as we desired, of course, that the clearing house should formally approve of the plan before we took any active steps, and from now on we will bend every effort toward that end."

Atlanta Has Good Chance.

The fact that Colonel Robert J. Lowry, president of the Lowry National bank and of the Atlanta Clearing House association, is a former president of the national organization, and has possibly a wider acquaintance in it than any other one man, is regarded by Atlantans as a strong asset upon which to start work, and as Mr. Ottley is a member of the executive committee, which practically controls the location of the conventions, makes it more than probable that Atlanta has a leading chance to land the gathering.

The matter of determining the place of the next convention will be decided at the Boston meeting, according to Mr. Allen, and from now until the last day of the convention Atlantans will be working to show why Atlanta is the logical place for holding the meeting.

"As an instance of the value of such a convention," said Mr. Allen, "let me tell you of the situation in Detroit some years ago, when the bankers went there. The automobile men located there needed capital at that time, needed the very working capital that has since made Detroit the automobile center of the country, and when they secured the bankers' convention, they [illegible] about 3,000 automobiles into service and took those men around their plants and gave them a personal knowledge of the possibilities for automobile manufacture in their city.

They Got the Capital.

"They got the capital all right, and you see the results. Now in Atlanta we have as wonderful opportunities in a score of ways as eDtroit had then, and we are constantly needing more capital. If we can get those men to realize what a splendid investment it is to put capital here, we will have done the city more good than can be told."

While this invitation is being extended the convention bureau is also seeking to get another convention. The National Conference of iCty Planning is now in session in Chicago, and C. J. Haden, representing the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, has been sent there to extend an invitation to make Atlanta the 1914 meeting place.

Through this convention the members of the chamber of commerce hope to learn much in regard to civic improvements along the lines of the work which they have already started. The convention met Monday and will end its session today. The vote upon the place of the next convention is due to be held today, and it is believed that it will be favorable to Atlanta.

LET THE CHILDREN PLAY SAYS WOODROW WILSON

Richmond, Va., May 6.—At the opening session of the Playground and Recreation Association of America here tonight letters were read from President Wilson and former President Roosevelt commending the world-wide campaign to help child life by providing proper places in which boys and girls may play. Theodore Roosevelt was elected honorary president and Joseph Lee, of Boston, was re-elected president.

In his letter President Wilson said: "I am very sorry I cannot attend your great meeting, because I have the deepest and sincerest interest in the objects it is seeking to serve. It seems to me of real consequence, morally as well as physically, that the children are growing up, particularly in our great cities, should have spaces to play and a knowledge of how to play. Amusements they must have and will have, good or bad, and it is certainly in the interest of the welfare of our communities that they should be assisted to obtain those amusements which are both good and refreshing."

TOWNSEND IS NAMED ST. MARY'S COLLECTOR

Washington, May 6.—President Wilson today nominated Sinclair C. Townsend, of Georgia, to be collector of customs for the district of St. Mary's, Ga.

MUSIC IN THE PARKS URGED BY PARK BOARD

Commissioners Will Ask Council to Appropriate $5,000 in June Sheet.

The movement started by Councilman Claude L. Ashley, of the fourth ward, to have the city appropriate $5,000 for music in Grant and Piedmont parks during the summer months will receive the hearty co-operation of the park board.

At the meeting of the board, Tuesday afternoon, following the introduction of the Ashley resolution in council, Commissioner Frank Wilby offered a resolution urging the board to appoint a committee of three to confer with Mayor Woodward and members of council and the finance committee with a view to secure the money in the June apportionment.

President J. O. Cochran appointed Commissioner L. C. Green, Frank Wilby and R. C. Burnett, on the committee.

Improvements in Parks.

It was indicated at the meeting that extensive improvements would be made at Grant and Piedmont parks other than was made during last fall. The board will ask council for $3,000 additional for Piedmont, and $5,000 additional for Grank park, and will again urge its recommendation to increase the salary of General Manager Dan Carey from $2,100 per annum to $2,750 per annum, an increase of $650. Councilman Sam Shepard, chairman of the park committee of council, and ex-officio member of the park board, will urge council to carry out the recommendations of the board as far as possible.

The board selected the Fifth Regiment band, one of the foremost musical organizations in the state, to direct the music at Grant and Piedmont parks. Colonel Pomeroy and Councilman Hall appeared before the committee in the interest of the band.

General Manager Dan Carey made a report on the improvements made at Grant, Piedmont and other city parks and playgrounds during the fall. Councilman Shepard said that from his observations of the work it appeared that more was accomplished than ever before.

Joe Bean Made Supervisor.

Joe Bean was named to succeed Miss Barnwell as supervisor of playgrounds. Miss Barnwell was offered the place again, but declined to accept.

Rev. Dr. Jere Moore petitioned the board to allow the Presbyterian ministers to see the cyclorama free. The board granted the permission after considerable discussion.

A strong delegation of citizens appeared before the board to discuss the improvement of Moseley park, in West End. The delegation was composed of G. C. Jones, Marcellus Anderson, Dr. J. C. White, S. L. Dallis, Fred Lester, Steve Herring and others.

W. C. Puckett made a report on the Easter egg hunt at Grant park last Saturday, stating that about 20,000 children participated in the hunt. He told the board that the event was one of the most successful ever given, and urged that the same committee be appointed to take charge of the arrangements for next season.

Deadly Wood Alcohol.

New York, May 6.—Thirteen persons in the state of New York were made blind for life and four other were killed during the past twelve months, either by drinking wood alcohol or inhaling its poisonous fumes, according to the fourth annual report of the New York committee on the prevention of blindness.

Dying Husband Barred Wife From Attending His Funeral

Columbus, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Mrs. May Radcliff will not be able to attend the funeral of her husband, Georgia Radcliff, who died late last night at the city hospital, the result of a pistol shot, which the police declare was fired by Mrs. Radcliff. The woman is being held on the charge of murder.

It developed tonight that Radcliff had expressed the earnest wish that his wife not be permitted to see him before death, or gaze upon his body after death. The wife was very anxious to view the body, and her attorney made an earnest appeal to Judge Gilbert to permit her to attend the funeral. But the judge decided not to go counter to the dying man's request, and so the wife remains in jail.

Radcliff had an insurance policy for $5,000 in which his wife was named as the beneficiary. While he was at the hospital he had the policy changed and named as the beneficiary Mrs. Kate Fox, the hospital matron, with directions that she use the money in paying his debts and funeral expenses and marking the grave. This will about exhaust the $500.

VICE INVESTIGATOR MIXED IN A SCANDAL

Spirngfield, Ill., May 6.—Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara, who brought about the appointment of the legislative vice investigating committee and who is the most active member of the body, today caused Richard M. Sullivan to be brought before the bar of the senate to tell what he knows reflecting upon the morality of the lieutenant governor.

Sullivan is a deputy sheriff of Sangamon county. To him is attributed a story which has been freely circulated, that he has an affidavit from a woman saying that O'Hara spent a day or two in her company in Chicago.

O'Hara arose in the senate today and asked that Sullivan be summoned to appear before the body for the purpose of investigating the story. The senate acted at once and dispatched the sergeant-at-arms with a summons When found late today Sullivan said he would appear tomorrow morning.

IN COMMITTING SUICIDE HE SCATTERED DEATH

Released So Much Gas Explosion Followed and Twenty Persons Were Injured.

New York, May 6.—A despondent east side paper cutter released such a quantity of gas when he turned on the jet in committing suicide tonight that the fumes filled the tenement building where he lived and an explosion occurred, in which more than a score of persons were injured, awo of them probably mortally. The explosion and resultant fire caused a panic in the neighborhood, a crowded section on Madison street. The blaze did little damage.

The injured were mostly members of a curious crowd which had followed Policeman William J. Cummings as he investigated teh odor of gas coming from the room of Samuel Gordon, the suicide. Cummings is one of those who sustained probably mortal hurts.

Memphis Shriner Offers Walking Wager About the 1914 Convention.

Memphis, Tenn., May 6.—(Special.)—The rivalry between Memphis and Atlanta for the next Shriners' convention took an interesting twist today Down in Atlanta Forrest Adair, millionaire realty dealer, clubman and potentate of Yaarab temple, is giving out interviews to the effect that it's all over but the shouting for Atlanta. He says that Atlanta has the convention cinched and stewed up, stored away, in fact, in its right-hand hip pocket.

Here in Memphis, however, the officials of Al Chymia just laugh when Atlanta is mentioned. They admit that the Georgian city would get the convention were it not for the fact that Memphis wants it.

DETECTIVE CHIEF FIRED FOR ARRESTING BOWEN AS A PHAGAN SUSPECT

OFFICIALS PLAN TO EXHUME BODY OF VICTIM TODAY

For Second Time in Less Than Week Physicians to Make Examination at the Graveside of Mary Phagan.

REFUSE TO TELL WHY ACTION WILL BE TAKEN

Search for Finger Prints and New Wounds Is Reported Reason—Inquest Resumed Thursday — Strange Man Sought.

Mary Phagan's body will be exhumed today for the second time Bertillion and medical experts will make examinations for finger prints and wounds which may have been overlooked before.Coroner Donehoo and Dr. H. F. Harris, of the state board of health, will be in charge.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock is the scheduled time. The coroner and Dr. Harris and others of their staffs will leave at daybreak this morning in automobiles. They are expected to return about noon. The examination will be at the grave side.

This action is take nat the request of Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey. Neither he nor Dr. Harris would talk when questioned by a Constitution reporter last night. Although they admitted that a second exhumation was in view, they would not divulge their reason.

Dr. Harris is Non-Committal.

"I am not in a position to talk," said Dr. Harris. "Under other circumstances, I would be glad to give any information at my command. In this case, though, I have been uregd to secrecy, and cannot violate my trust."

The solicitor said:

"I cannot talk. The body will be exhumed, it is true, at my request. To reveal further plans would be ruinous."

It was learned by The Constitution, however, that the body was to be exhumed for an examination for possible finger prints and wounds. The information came from responsible source.

It also is rumored that a Bertillion expert, summoned by authorities, arrived in Atlanta last night, and will inspect the body for finger prints. In case such evidence is revealed, photographs will be made and placed in hands of the solicitor general.

The examination for wounds will be made by Dr. Harris. When he was asked if his analysis of the dead girl's stomach had been finished, he said:

Examination Not Complete.

"The examination has not been completed. It is well under way, however, and within a few days, I will be prepared to submit the result before the coroner's jury."

He was asked if he could determine at this stage of the examination whether or not there were traces of drugs or dope.

He answered: "I am not prepared to talk on that subject. I will be unable to make a statement until I am called before the coroner's inquest."

The body was first exhumed last Sunday night under supervision of Dr. Harris, Coroner Donehoo and County Physician John W. Hurt. The stomach was removed and placed in the laboratory of Dr. Harris, who is analyzing it for traces of drugs or poison.

It came as a surprise. It was not made known until 2:50 o'clock Monday afternoon, when the coroner and Dr. Hurt appeared at the inquest held at police headquarters. It was intended to keep the second exhumation a secredit, in accordance with plans of the solicitor.

Seek Strange Man.

Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey is striving to learn the identity of the strange man who participated in a sensational scene at the Terminal station last Saturday week with a girl believed to have been Mary Phagan.

It was learned Tuesday that this man's suit case, which was checked overnight in the parcel check room, was tagged with a label bearing the lettering:

"National Pencil Company, Atlanta."

Also, it was disclosed that, following the scene created by him and the girl, he cancelled his Pullman ticket for Saturday night, returning Sunday afternoon to engage a berth for that night. He left the station Saturday in company with the girl.

Girl Makes Scene.

As has already been revealed, a youthful, well-dressed man, wearing a straw hat and carrying a suit case, walked hurriedly from the waiting room of the Terminal Saturday afternoon of the 26th, and made his way along the runway leading to the track stairways.

As he reached the gateway of tracks No. 5 and 6, a pretty girl, about 14 years old, clad in summer frock and wearing a dark blue straw hat, rushed from the waiting room and accosted him. She seemed angry. He dropped his case and led her away from the crowd, apparently to have a talk with her.

The attention of a gatemac, who had noticed the arrival of both the man and girl, was again attracted to them by loud exclamations from the girl. She was furious and tearful, while he was obviously trying to explain something.

"You want to leave me; you want to leave," she was heard to wail. "I won't

Former Atlantan, Who Was Taken Into Custody in Houston, Texas, Early on Monday Night, Released After an Investigation by Chief of Police Department, Who Says He Is Convinced of His Innocence.

BOWEN WAS IN CHINERO ON DAY OF THE MURDER HE TELLS DETECTIVES

His Father, Cal Bowen, of Newnan, Ga., Received a Message Last Night From His Son, Declaring That He Had Been Freed — Bowen Is Well Connected in Georgia and His Friends Are Indignant Over His Arrest.

Paul P. Bowen, former Atlantan, who was arrested in Houston, Texas, Monday night on suspicion of being connected with the Phagan murder mystery, as told in The Constitution extra Tuesday morning, was released from custody last night, and declared guiltless by the police chief of that city.

George Peyton, chief of the detective force, who led the arresting party, has been discharged as a result of the arrest, on the ground that he "exceeded his authority" in taking Bowen into custody.

Until nine or ten months ago Paul Bowen lived in Atlanta, and his reputation in this city was of the best, employers and friends speaking a good word for him on Tuesday afternoon.

His father and many relatives live in Newnan, Ga., and are among the best people in that section of the state. Mr. Bowen late Tuesday night received a telegram from his son in Houston announcing that he had been given his freedom.

Bowen Freed; Arrester Fired.

Here is the story from The Constitution's correspondent in Houston of the release of Bowen and of the discharge of George Peyton, chief of detectives:

Houston, Texas, May 6.—(Special.)—Paul Peniston Bowen, a railroad clerk, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., who was arrested Monday night by Chief of Detectives George Peyton, Detective Hilton and Night Chief of Police Gordon Murphy, for the purpose of an investigation which the departmental officials thought would connect him with the murder of Mary Phagan, aged 14 years, in Atlanta, was released from custody late Tuesday afternoon by the order of Chief of Police Ben S. Davison.

Bowen's arrest came after an investigation of his conduct upon his arrival in Houston, and it was not until late in the afternoon that the theory of the detectives was refuted by his clean-cut statement as to his whereabouts at the time of the murder.

Bowen Tells His Story.

Mr. Bowen, seen Tuesday afternoon, said: "My father is S. C. Bowen. He lives at Newnan, Ga. I told the detectives that they had made a mistake at the time they arrested me, and knew that they would soon find this to be so, if they investigated my references and letters.

"Of course, I was scared when they entered my room. I did meet them at the door with an open knife, and, before I knew who they were, I did say that if I had had a gun they wouldn't have come into my room. I meant it, too.

"Here is my record. I left home in 1908 and went to work for the Morrow Transfer and Storage company in Atlanta, which is located on East Alabama street, in the capacity of stenographer and shipping clerk. I left this company's employ in 1910, and shortly afterwards obtained employment with the Southern railroad as car clerk. I left this company in June, 1912, and then went to the Rock Island railroad, at Eldorado, Ark., as a master car builder's clerk.

"I worked there until February 15, 1913, and then went to Tyler, Texas, where I was private stenographer to H. D. Earl, division superintendent of the Cotton Belt railroad.

"I left the employ of Mr. Earl April 28, and went to Chinero, Texas, where I visited my uncle, Dr. E. M. Smith. I left there last Saturday and went to Lufkin, and arrived in Houston Sunday night. You know where I have been since that night."

Bowen Innocent, Says Chief.

Chief Davison, shortly after the release of Bowen, made this statement to a Post reporter:

"I was not with the men when he was arrested. It is true that I had knowledge that it was contemplated arresting him, but I did not think it would be done as soon as it was. I am thoroughly convinced that the boy is innocent."

Chief of Detectives Peyton was relieved from duty tonight by Chief Davison, who says the detective exceeded his authority in the Bowen case.

Why Bowen Was Arrested.

Paul Bowen was arrested as the result of a story told the police by a woman boarder at the hotel where he was stopping.

From Bowen's trunk the police obtained a woman's vest, which they said was blood-staised, copief of Atlanta newspapers and a photograph, which they declared that of the murdered girl, Mary Phagan. This identification was made today by comparing the photograph with Atlanta papers. The police also found a packet of letters which they examined.

The woman informant gave her name as Mrs. A. Blanchette. The police say she resides here, and so far as they can learn, she had no previous acquaintance with Bowen.

Bowen Was Sobbing.

Yesterday Bowen registered at the hotel where Mrs. Blanchette stopped and occupied a room adjoining hers. She says her attention was attracted by hearing a man sobbing in the adjoining room, and that by standing on a chair she looked through a transom at Bowen while he opened his trunk. She told the police that his action had aroused her suspicions. Acting on her information they arrested Bowen. He was put through a searching questioning by Chief of Police Davidson and other officers this forenoon.

Many of the letters bore Atlanta dates and some of them were signed "Mary," while others bore simply the initials "M. P." There were also business letters showing apparently business connections with Atlanta firms.

Had Knife in Hand.

Mrs Blanchette told the police she heard Bowen talking to himself, saying, "Why did I do it? If I could just live it over again I would not do it."

When the police went to the hotel upon Mrs. Blanchette's "tip" they found Bowen had moved late yesterday afternoon to an apartment house and between midnight and 1 o'clock this morning the officers entered the room at this place occupied by him. They found him with an open knife in his hand, which was taken from him, and an investigation of his trunk started. At this Bowen, the police say, remarked, "If I had my six-shooter with me you would not touch that trunk except over my dead body."

Worked in Atlanta.

Bowen this afternoon said he had been a bookkeeper and stenographer, and claimed that he worked in Atlanta, Ga., for the Morrow Transfer company. He gave his home address as 108 Ivy street, that city.

He has worked in several places in Georgia, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, he says, but in what trade he would not state.

He denies knowing anything about the pencil factory, any persons connected with, or employed in the factory. He said he did not know the Phagan girl. His trunk contained dozens of pictures of young ladies, singly and in groups. Letters from several young women are among his effects.

Bowen's Reputation Good.

S. S. May, foreman of the collar department at the Capital City laundry, chummed with him for months. He was outspoken in his praise of him Tuesday.

"Bowen was an absolute gentleman," declared May. "There is no one in Atlanta who could say a word against him. He was never a boy to go with bad company—in fact, he went with some of the nicest people in Atlanta. They were working people, of course, for the most part, but they were all cultured and not the kind that would be associated with an affair of this sort.

Popular With Young Women.

"He was quite a ladies' man, and seemed to be quite popular with the girls. But he was always gentlemanly in his deportment, and I am sure that any girl that had known him would so declare.

"I knew him in Newnan, Ga., before I came here. He lived with his people there. He has a father, two brothers and a sister. I know them all, and there are no better people in Georgia.

"He was one of the first people that I knew, that I saw, when I came to Atlanta. He took me to a boarding house at 131 Capitol avenue, where he used to stay. His reputation there was good, too.

Went to Station With Bowen.

"He left here late last summer—June or July, probably. I remember walking to the station with him. He went to El Dorado, Ark.; I saw his transportation.

"We have corresponded pretty regularly since then, and it was only about three weeks ago that I received a letter from him from a little town in Arkansas, just south of El Dorado. He said in it that he was either going north or to the Pacific coast."

C. C. Carroll, foreman of the Morrow Transfer company, who also knew Bowen when he was here several years ago, spoke well of him.

"He came here two or three years ago as assistant shipping clerk. He was just out of a business college then. He stayed here for four or five months, and left entirely of his own volition.

"He seemed to be as nice a boy as you can find. I never heard anyone say a word against him."

Worked for Southern Railway.

At the office of the master mechanic of the Southern railroad, everyone spoke well of him.

The master mechanic said that he had always done his work well, and that there had never been anything said against him. He also declared that Charles Kimball, who works in the office, had received a letter from him at El Dorado, dated April 23, just three days before the murder was committed.

M. R. Bowen, an elder brother of Paul P. Bowen, was reached by telephone at Newnan.

He declared that his brother had never had any form of dementia, and that he could not see how it would have been possible for him to commit such a crime.

"Paul has been in Houston for about six weeks, I think," he told a reporter. "I believe that he was traveling with the general manager of some road. He left Atlanta last fall and went to El Dorado, Ark., where he did stenographic work for the Rock Island railroad. As far as I know, he never heard of Mary Phagan and, if letters from her, and her picture were found in his trunk, it's all a mystery to me."

6,000,000 WOMEN REFUSED BALLOT

ernment the head of which was opposed to them.

"They never did that," declared the premier amid cheers.

Mr. Asquith said the bill created 6,000,000 new voters and it had never been approved by the existing electorate. He continued:

"Would our political fabric be strengthened, would our legislative fabric be more respected, would our social domestic life be enriched, would our standard of manners—and by manners I mean the old-fashioned virtues of chivalry, courtesy and interdependence of the sexes on one another—be raised or refined if women were given the vote?"

Cries of "Of course they would," were raised on all sides of the house.

The premier strongly denied that parliament had been neglectful of the interests of women, and said he saw no evidence that British women as a whole wanted the vote.

Sir Edward Grey for Bill.

Sir Edward Grey, secretary of foreign affairs, supported the bill. He said there was ample evidence that a very large section of the women of the country had shown by constitutional means that they favored the enfranchisement of their sex. Militancy, he characterized as "the inconsiderate and criminal conduct of a small body of representative individuals with whose outrages the law had dealt and ought to deal severely."

Nobody, he said, had greater reason to deplore the methods of the militant suffragists than those who desired the enfranchisement of women, but he argued that their outrages should not influence the decision of the house.

Many admitted women were fitted to deal with social and industrial matters of legislation which vitally affected their interests, but were not fitted to deal with questions of foreign policy, he said. He contended that the demonstrated attitude of women in dealing with abstruse economics questions involved in social and industrial legislation proved they were possessed of sufficient intelligence to pass judgment on questions of foreign policy which were far less complicated and seldom an issue at the general elections.

Lord Robert Cecil, advocating the bill, contended that to vote against it because of militant outrages would be utterly illogical and unworthy the high standard of intelligence claimed by members of the house.

"Disgrace to Country."

The Right Hon. Walter Hume Long in opposing the measure first congratulated the prime minister on the ability and calm dignity displayed in his speech despite the treatment he had received at the hands of the suffragettes, which, he took occasion to say, "is a disgrace to the country." He urged that the passage of the bill would not stop militant tactics, but would only lead to fiercer agitation for a larger measure of enfranchisement.

The Right Hon. Frederick E. Smith said supporters of the bill repudiated the militants when it suited them, but would use them as long as it paid to do so. It was not until 1906 when militancy began that a single member of the house took the movement seriously. The great bulk of the women, he maintained, were indifferent to the franchise. The country had never been consulted on the question. Under such circumstances therefore for the unionists to vote for the bill would be grossly inconsistent with their opposition to home rule, on the ground that the electorate had given no mandate for it.

A motion to reject the bill was carried 266 to 219.

FOR A PERPETUATION OF CENTURY OF PEACE

Conference Planning to Make War Impossible Among the English-Speaking Nations.

New York, May 6.—Before taking up today discussion of the plans for celebrating one hundred years of peace among English-speaking nations, the international conference in session here to arrange the program, tentatively decided to adopt a statement of purposes that will make for a perpetuation of this peace. The celebration, it was stated, was of secondary importance to the consideration of future peace between the two nations as object lesson to other countries now at war or preparing to engage to settle differences by force of arms. In this connection, it was announced tonight that at the banquet in honor of the visiting delegates on Friday night Secretary of State Bryan would be present and is expected to make an important announcement.

A celebration plan considered was the erection of international peace monuments by Great Britain and the United States, possibly of identical design, the cost to be defrayed either from public funds or through private subscriptions. With the monument plan as a basis other suggestions were that the cornerstones be laid on a chosen day by the king of England, the president of the United States and by their representatives "beyond the seas" that other nations and all foreign governments be invited to send delegates to attend these ceremonies; that on the day the cornerstones are laid there be a cessation of work for five minuts through th two countries and their colonies and that the occasion be observed by special exercises in the schools.

It was further suggested that a fitting way to promote the growth of mutual respect and good will between Great Britain and the United States and their colonies would be through the endowment in colleges and universities of chairs of British-American history with especial reference to the peaceful progress and relations of the two countries. This plan, it was suggested, could be based upon the principle of interchanging professors. It was urged that under the same head should be considered the endowment of traveling scholarships to enable journalists and writers to visit English-speaking countries, and the awarding of prizes for essays by school students on subjects of peace and the abolition of war among civilized people. The schools, the delegates agreed, should be urged to include courses of history covering the period of 100 years of peace and to hold peace day celebrations every year.

During the celebration period two years hence the delegates agreed to urge that one day be set aside for universal religious services of thanksgiving; that it would be desirable to strike off an international commemorative medal, and to adopt a universal table to be placed in public buildings and affixed to the international peace monuments.

Charles A. McGrath, secretary of the Canadian delegation, said that in the executive session the delegates decided to postpone definite action on the proposals to recommend the erection of prmanent peace monuments on the frontiers and the proposed celebration at Chent. Captain McGrath said that while suggestions made today were tentative, all of them would be considered very seriously, and he felt assured that the program would be arranged with them as the basis.

The delegates were the guests today at luncheon of Henry Clews, a member of the conference for this country, at which Mr. Clews and Lord Weardale were the principal speakers. Tonight they were the guests at dinner of Cornelius Vanderbilt. The executive session of the conference will be continued tomorrow.

NO WAR IS WANTED BY ALSACE-LORRAINE

Strassburg, Germany, May 6.—The chamber of deputies unanimously adopted a resolution today requesting Count Von Wedel to instruct the Alsace-Loraine delegates to the Bundesrath to take a decided stand against the idea of war between France and Germany. The delegates will be further instructed to urge the Bundesrath to seek ways and means for a reapproachment between France and Germany, with the object of checking the rivalry in armaments among the European nations.

RULE BY COMMISSION ADOPTED BY BRISTOL

Bristol, Tenn., May 6.—The commission form of government was today adopted in Bristol, Tenn., in the hottest municipal campaign in the city's history by a majority of 19. John H. Faucette, a wholesale merchant, was elected mayor today under the old charter and will run again in June, when the mayor and commissioners will be elected to administer the new government, succeeding to all of the functions of the present board of mayor and aldermen.

ELECT INFANT CLAUSE WILL NOT BE CHANGED

Louisville, Ky., May 6.—For the second time the proposed amendment to the confession of faith in connection with the much discussed "elect infant" clause, has failed to receive the necessary three-fourths vote of the Presbyteries of the Southern Presbyterian church. Although defeated on a former occasion, the general assembly last year again submitted to the Presbyteries the matter of changing the language of the confession of faith.

It has been charged that the language of the confession as it now reads, "elect infants dying in infancy, etc," can be construed as declaring that some infants are elect and some are not elect. Those who favor the change argue that the church believes all children dying in infancy are saved, and that the confession of faith should be revived so as clearly to convey this idea.

They had hoped to receive the necessary three-fourth vote and see the change formally passed when the assembly meets this month in Atlanta. Returns received up to tonight by the Christian Observer, of Louisville, show that twenty-two presbyteries already have voted against the proposed change, thus insuring its defeat.

These are Abingdon, Albermarle, Athens, Atlanta, Bethel, Central Mississippi, Charleston, Cherokee, Concord, Harmony, LaFayette, Mecklenburg, Muhlenburg, New Orleans, Red River, Roanoke, St. Louis, Tygart's Valley, West Hanover, Wilmington, Winchester and Kings Mountain.

Broad Statement Wanted.

Chicago, May 6.—When the assemblies of the branches of the Presbyterian church meet at Atlanta next week a proposal will be made in each assembly that they unite in an expression of the broad general beliefs which are common to all of them.

The form of the proposal was drafted by Rev. W. S. Plummer Bryan, of this city, who made it public today and who stated that he has referred many assurances of support from influential members of each of the assemblies.

A formal expression of the beliefs which are common to the branches of the church, it is Mr. Bryan's opinion, will provide evidence to the public that the points on which the churches awe at one are more numerous and more vital than those on which they differ.

Country Girl Likes Noise of City, but Father Takes Her Back to Quiet Farm

"Please don't make me go back to the country. The city is so much nicer," sobbed Miss Mamie Odom, a pretty 20-year-old girl, who ran away from her home 3 miles out of Senoia, Ga., last Saturday. She was talking to Assistant Police Chief Jett when she was brought to his office after having been found at a boarding house at 74 Nelson street last night.

"The folks were always nice to me, but I don't want to go back. I'm tired of the chickens and cows and horses. I like the noise of a big city, the people; yes, and I like the work."

Miss Odom found a position at a factory here Monday and was just getting used to the work when officers found her and took her to police headquarters. Her father has been notified and will come to take her back to "the chicken and cows and horses" today.

Miss Mary Couch, aged 17, who ran away with her, was found by her father Tuesday morning and taken back home without the aid of the police.

GUGGENHEIM BLOCKED ALASKA LEGISLATION

Washington May 6.—Gifford Pinchot charged before the senate territories committee today that private interests had held up legislation to open Alaskan coal fields under a leasing system and named former eSnator Guggenheim of Colorado, as one of the men who had exerted his influence to prevent such legislation. He told the committee that he could get the names of other men in and out of congress who were in opposition to the leasing system.

Mr. Pinchot had been called to give his opinion of the bill for government aid in construction of Alaskan railroads. He was asked why, in his opinion, legislation to develop the Alaskan coal fields had taken so many years to get through congress.

"Do you mean that members of congress have been influenced by private interests against such legislation?" asked eSnator Lippitt.

"I mean what you all know, that private interests have great influence in congress," returned Mr. Pinchot.

"There was strong opposition from Senator Guggenhim to passage of the leasing bill. There were others. I can get the names if you want them."

The former forester declared that in his judgment the government should operate railroads in Alaska. He believed in the leasing system for mines. He added that if the government had retained possession of the coal fields of Pennsylvania, there never would have been "political corruption" as he said existed in that state.

Mr. Pinchot advocated the retention in government possession of all "factors of power," coal, oil and water power.

"Powers," he said, "is the greatest tool of civilization. The curtailment of sources of power is the main reason for the high cost of living."

Mr. Pinchot was the only witness today.

MONEY LEGISLATION WANTED BY BANKERS

New York, May 6.—The "necessity for prompt banking and currency legislation" is one of the recommendations that the executive council of the American Bankers' association will make at the next convention of the association. A resolution adopted at today's session of the council at Briar Cliff Manor urges the association to bring to the attention of President Wilson and congress the pressing need of a new financial system that will place the United States on a par with other great commercial and competing nations.

The sessions of the council today were devoted to hearing of committee reports on currency, burglary protection and agricultural and vocational education.

OFFICIALS PLAN TO EXHUME BODY

let you. You are doing wrong. You are, you know you are!"

Scene Attracts Attention.

The scene attracted considerable crowd. The man drew himself away, picked up his suitcase, and catching the tearful girl by the arm, moved with her to the window of the parcel check room. There he deposited the case. he operator of the check room states that he noticed the name of the pencil firm on a tag attached to the baggage, but thought nothing of it until several days later, when he read of the Phagan tragedy.

The man and girl walked into the waiting room, where he went to the ticket window and cancelled the Pullman ticket he had obtained for a trip that afternoon. The agent could not recollect his destination. Immediately, he and his companion left the station, and were last noticed as they walked across the plaza toward Mitchell street.

Sunday afternoon he returned alone to the Terminal and obtained a Pullman berth for a journey that night. The ticket agent, it is said, will be able to identify him in the event he is located, and so will the parcel check room man.

The description of the girl, as given by the gateman and man who checked the stranger's suit case, fit aptly with that of the murdered girl. Neither saw her body, however, as it had been buried before news of the pencil plant tragedy refreshed their momery of the station incident.

Coroner's Inquest Thursday.

A number of attaches to the pencil concern will probably be examined in the effort to learn the identity of the strange man at the Terminal, when the coroner's jury meets Thursday. The pencil company tag on the suit case leads the solicitor and his staff to believe he was connected in some capacity with the plant.

Dorsey Makes Denial.

Solicitor General Hugh Dorsey declared yesterday that in speaking with Lemmie Quinn, foreman of the National Pencil factory, about the Phagan murder case, that he had not asked Quinn if counsel had bribed him for his testimony.

"It is the last thing that would come into my mind," said the solicitor. "I did ask Quinn about whom he had been talking with and asked him if anybody was paying him for his testimony, but I certainly did not mention counsel or anyone else in particular in regard to the case."

Sawmill Burned.

Waycross, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Fire of unknown origin this afternoon destroyed the large saw mill and planing mill of J. R. & T. Bunn at Fairfax, west of Waycross, causing an estimated loss of $30,000. There is no insurance. Several years ago the entire plant that was today partially destroyed was burned.

If "cheap" clothes are what you're looking for, dont waste your time on ours, because we dont know how to make "cheap" clothes, and we are not competing with such makers.

Everything we make is standardized and has intrinsic value in proportion to the price. We particularly emphasize our $25 suits because so many men are willing to spend about that price, and want to get as great a value as possible for the money.

There's true economy in such clothes as ours; the prices are based on what we put into them; fine fabrics, fine tailoring, the best style designing; our facilities for these things are greater and better than any custom tailor can command; and the maker of cheap clothes cant afford them.

You'll find our suits ready at $18 and $20; and up to $40 and $50. At $25 is a good place to begin.

KNIGHT IS HEAD OF MAIL CLERKS

The Railway Mail association for the fourth division, made up of delegates from the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee and South Carolina, held its second annual convention in Atlanta yesterday in the Railroad Young Men's Christian association auditorium.

The constitution was amended by making the sessions of the association every other year instead of every year and the next session will be held in 1915 at some place to be designated by the executive committee. The officers elected for the next two years are:

President—C. E. Knight, of Macon.
Vice President—E. D. Carswell, of Waycross.
Secretary-treasurer—F. W. Rooney, of Atlanta.

Delegates to Cincinnati.

Delegates to the next annual convention in Cincinnati next month as elected are J. H. Kuhne, of Charleston, S. C.; T. J. Luckie, of Birmingham, Ala., and W. M. Selcer, of Atlanta, retiring president of the fourth division.

An executive committee, composed of one member from each state, was created and W. M. Selcer, of Atlanta; R. J. Shackleford, of Nashville, Tenn.; R. J. Harden, of Montgomery, Ala.; R. A. Cart, of Charleston, S. C., and J. M. Ripley, of Jacksonville, Fla., were elected as members of that committee.

A resolution indorsing the administration of John Hogan, of Atlanta, as auditor and directing delegates to the national convention to urge his retention in that position was adopted by a rising vote.

When W. M. Selcer, of Atlanta, president of the association's fourth division, called the gathering to order Tuesday morning there were responses from thirty delegates as F. W. Rooney, of Atlanta, secretary-treasurer, called the roll. F. M. Jones, of Birmingham, vice president, and John Hogan, of Atlanta, national auditor, were among those present.

All-day Meeting Held.

The meeting was continuous from 9 a. m. to a late hour last night, the only recess being taken at 1 o'clock for a thirty-minute lunch. President Selcer's address immediately after roll call was the feature of the session, which was executive throughout. He said that the membership had shown a decidedly rapid and satisfactory growth. Closer relationship, the president declared, had elevated the standard of efficiency and necessarily the value of the railway mail service to the general public.

The annual report of Secretary-treasurer Rooney indicated a satisfactory balance in the fourth division's bank account, together with quick responses from the membership in payment of dues and assessments.

While the records of the association showed that G. A. Wood, of Portsmouth, N. H., was its oldest member and held certificate No. 1, they also showed that C. W. Eddins, of Atlanta, is the second oldest member.

"The entire session," said Mr. Hogan, of Atlanta, national auditor of fourth division, "was given up to matters of no interest to the general public. Only the members of the association are interested in what transpired, and that mainly was the conclusive showing that the association is in a prosperous and growing condition. Nothing of a political nature whatever was brought up for the reason that the association has nothing whatever to do with politics in any way. We are working for the betterment of the service as a class and the elevation of the class of men who work in railway mail cars, giving their entire time and attention to making more efficient and satisfactory to the general public of the railway mail service, the responsibilities of which are increasing every day more than the people we serve can even imagine."

OLD PHILLIPS HOME NEAR MARIETTA BURNS

Marietta, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—The residence of Shrim Dobbs, who resides five miles south of Marietta, was destroyed by fire Sunday with all its contents. This was one of the old country homes of the county, having been the property for years of the late General William Phillips. The building caught fire from the kitchen fire.

Court at Marietta.

Marietta, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Judge H. L. Fatterson, of the Blue Ridge circuit, convened court here yesterday morning. Solicitor E. H. Clay was also present. Quite a number of minor cases are to be tried and the jail to be relieved of its twenty or more occupants. James H. Groves, of Marietta, is foreman and Jesse L. Lemon of Acworth, is clerk of the body.

MYSTERIOUS MRS. ELLIS IS FOUND BESIDE TRACK

Woman Who Jumped or Fell From Train Near Cordele Refuses to Tell Residence.

Cordele, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—That Mrs. W. K. Ellis, who is now confined to the Cordele sanitarium, in a serious condition, jumped from a window of the sleeper of an Atlanta, Birmignham and Atlantic east bound train at Ross, near Cordele, early this morning while the train was running at not less than twenty miles an hour, is the best conclusion that can be reached by parties investigating the accident or attempted suicide.

There are several mysterious connections with the affair that make it appear probable that she attempted to end her life by jumping from the train. Mrs. Ellis, as she gave her name to physicians attending her, is very reticent, refusing to divulge the place of her residence and some details in connection with the accident or attempted suicide. She is about 35 years of age and handsome.

A telephone message early this morning called physicians to the home of Eugene Youngblood, at Ross. Mr. Youngblood stating that a woman had fallen from the train and was seriously injured. Upon reaching there the physicians found that Mrs. Ellis was badly scratched and bruised, though no bones were broken, and there is no evidence of internal injuries.

According to her statement, she became sick during the night and arose from her berth and dressed about 4 o'clock. She went on the rear platform to get some fresh air and presumes that she fainted, regaining consciousness lying beside the track. She managed to make her way to a nearby negro house and woke the occupants, one of them going for Mr. Youngblood, who took the injured woman to his home. She was brought to the sanitarium several hours later.

The conductor and porter on the sleeper declared that both doors were securely locked between Montezuma and Cordele, and they have no knowledge of a woman leaving her berth at such an early hour. It is alleged that when first questioned about her home and relatives Mrs. Ellis said that she was a widow. However, it developed from the statement of the conductor that she occupied a double berth and two tickets were sold for it from Atlanta to Waycross, the other passenger being a man. When confronted with this statement it is said she declared the man was her husband.

The man in the case, it is understood, left the train at Abba and walked to Fitzgerald, a distance of several miles, evidently having some knowledge of the accident to the woman or her attempted suicide.

Actor Under Knife

Following an operation performed upon Otis Skinner, one of the foremost American actors, at the Methodist hospital in Indianapolis, his condition was so serious that his recovery was doubted. Mr. Skinner had been suffering for about four weeks from mastoiditis. An incision was made behind the ear. It was found that an abscess had reached the membrane of the brain, but had not yet affected it.

EXHAUSTION KILLED SCOTT AND HIS MEN

Winnipeg, Man., May 6.—Exhaustion and not starvation was the undoing of Captain Scott and the men who died with him on their way back from the south pole, according to Lieutenant Gran, a member of the party which found the bodies.

"The end of the party apparently was peaceful," declared Gran, here today.

"Lieutenant Wright, of Toronto, who commanded our party, went into the explorer's tent first. Captain Scott lay on his back asleep, but outside of his sleeping bag. Dr. Wilson and Lieutenant Bowers were in their sleeping bags. Apparently they had been carefully wrapped by Captain Scott, who evidently wsa the last to die.

"Lieutenant Bowers lay on his side, exactly if he were asleep. Dr. Wilson was half-reclined, his back against the tent, facing us as we entered. On his features were traces of a faint smile. He looked exactly as if he were about to awaken from a sound sleep. I had often seen the same look on his face in the morning as he awakened. The scene was depressing.

"While they did not die of starvation, still all their food had given out, and worst of all, their fuel. Besides, they were experiencing terrible storms.

"We laid the bodies side by side, and said a burial service. Then we removed the poles from the tent and covered the bodies with the canvas. On top of this we built a cairn of snow and ice fifteen feet high. We took two skits, bound them together in the form of a cross, erected it on top of the cairn, a last memorial to the dead, and left them where they fell."

Gran has in his possession Scott's diary and records. He is en route to London to attend the meeting of the Royal Geographical society.

NOT A DENT MADE IN TARIFF MEASURE

All Attacks on Underwood Revision Prove Futile--The Income Tax Feature Is Now Being Considered.

Washington, May 6.—The overwhelming democratic majority in the house today swept through the free list, bowled over all opposition to free wool, free meats and other necessities and passed on to consideration of the hundred million dollars income tax feature of the Underwood tariff bill. Not a dent was made in the bill as approved by the ways and means committee majority. It was expected the measure would be passed unamended by the house by tomorrow.

All day there was sparring across the aisle dividing the democrats and the republicans. Many amendments were offered by republicans in a forlorn effort to put many free listed articles back on the dutiable list, but all were voted down with a regularity that brought smiles from the minority. Finally, when the last of these proposed changes had been rejected, Representative Payne precipitated a lively fight by offering a brand new amendment to create a tariff commission.

Instantly all the parliamentary sharps on both sides were astir. Speaker Clark sat next to Democratic Leader Underwood at the front of the speaker's rostrum where Mr. Underwood has been conducting consideration of the bill. Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, rushed in from the appropriations committee, armed with precedents, and followed by Representatives Sherley, of Kentucky and Hardwick of Georgia, who joined in the majority protest against admitting the amendment. On the republican side, Leader Mann, Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, Representative Payne of New York, and others, conferred and addressed the house.

It was all over quickly, Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, in the chair, sustaining a point of order made by Mr. Underwood that the tariff commission amendment was not germane to the bill.

When Representative Mann appealed from the decision the house sustained the chair 164 to 87.

The Income Tax Feature.

Representative Hull, of Tennessee, chief draftsman of the income tax feature of the tariff bill, prepared tonight to resist a campaign by the minority to amend the dettails of the proposed law. He expected a hard fight on behalf of the mutual fire insurance companies, which would be taxed 1 per cent under the measure. Provisions affecting insurance companies were taken almost verbatim from the corporation tax law already in effect, but to avoid any possible question, committee amendments were prepared tonight to eliminate even the slightest variation from the existing law.

Regular reading of the income tax provision for amendment was completed in short order. Perfecting amendments offered by the ways and means committee and adopted included a provision exempting returned investments in insurance and a clause changing the terms regarding mutual fire insurance companies so as to allow them to deduct from their gross incomes the amount required under the state laws to be placed in their reserve funds. Another amendment changed the language of the provision imposing a tax of 1 per cent on the net profits of insurance companies so as to make the bill conform literally to the present corporation tax law.

Republicans attempted by numerous amendments to alter the income tax rates, but without avail. The progressives also offered several amendments. Progressive Leader Murdock proposed a 6 per cent tax on all incomes over $100,000, and Representative Kelley, of Pennsylvania, urged an 8 per cent tax on such incomes. Representative Kelley announced his intention of voting for the entire democratic bill, declaring he believed it was a step in the right direction. Other progressives indorsed the income tax feature.

Representative Gillett, of Massachusetts, offered an amendment providing for a tax of 1 per cent on incomes between $1,000 and $4,000 a year.

Income Tax Defended.

The democrats generally defended the income tax as lifting the burden of taxation from the poor man and making the rich man bear his share.

"Some of the rich say that this is class legislation," said Representative Tavenner, of Illinois. "They were never heard to complain, however, of the existing class legislation which taxes the hats, coats and shirts of the masses almost 71 per cent, and does not require men like Rockefeller and Carnegie to pay a single cent to the nation's government on their wealth."

Representative Mann, for Resident Commissioner Quezon, of the Philippines, offered an amendment to tax the Chinese, Japanese and other residents of the Philippines as well as the Filipinos and Americans in the islands. The committee agreed to take this under consideration. The Philippine commissioner unsuccessfully sought to relieve the Filipinos of any income tax on the ground that they could not vote on this legislation. Representative Underwood explained that the inclusion of the Philippines in the income tax was to reach the wealth of the Philippine Islands and that the bill lightened the burdens of the small farmer of the Philippines by repealing the export tax on Philippine products.

Cotton Schedule Attacked.

As the discussion of the free list closed, Representative Donovan, a Connecticut democrat, criticised the ways and means committee for framing certain sections of the bill "unintelligently."

"The cotton schedule was brutally treated," he declared. He read a letter from the Crane Steel company, protesting against the raising of the duty on ferro manganese. "This is from the company of one of the largest contributors to President Wilson's campaign fund," he said, "and a man who is to be sent as our representative to the court of Russia. He says the increased duty looks like a scheme of the steel trust to put the independent producers out of business."

Republicans from the northwest attacked the free wheat and flour provisions of the bill.

Representative Underwood defended free flour, declaring that the northwest would not be injured and an amendment to the bill was defeated. Efforts to take lumber from the free list and alter the wood pulp and print paper finally were defeated.

The wool paragraph in the free list brought about a defection from the solid front of the democrats. Representative Sharp, of Ohio, representing democrats opposed to free wool, offered an amendment placing a duty of 20 per cent on raw wool, the rate fixed by the Underwood bill of the last congress.

Representative Sharp defended his democracy by the statement that he now proposed a rate which both Speaker Clark and Majority Leader Underwood had voted for in the last congress.

Representative Fordney attacked the free wool provision. Various amendments, including one to place all manufactures of wool on the free list were defeated.

Democratic "Rags."

Representative Mondell got permission to offer an amendment providing that all rags imported must be cleaned and sterilized and delivered a diatribe on the "democratic rags." "The democrats propose to admit free of duty," he shouted, "the rags of the world. Rags from the harems of Turkey, rags from the slums of London, rags from the purlieus of Naples and Rome, and rags from cholera and bubonic plague camps of the Balkan peninsula will be given to our people free. I know of nothing more logical in a democratic tariff bill than free rags. We must have the rags of all the world to come here to clothe our people, driven from employment by the democratic tariff rates."

Representative Underwood pointed out that Mr. Mondell's amendment was unnecessary because the rags were cleaned before being admitted to this country.

MONUMENT TO PIERCE IS ASSURED AT LAST

Concord, N. H., May 6.—Franklin Pierce, the only president of the United States from New Hampshire, seems assured at last, of a statue by his native state. The senate today passed a house bill providing $15,000 for the statue to be erected on the statehouse grounds. Governor Felker is expected to sign the measure.

The fact that Pierce was a democrat and a pro-slavery man has hitherto aroused such strong opposition to the statue proposal that appropriation bills for the purpose always have been killed by the long succession of republican legislatures. The present legislature is democratic for the first time in forty years.

LEAVES FLORIDA HOME TO ESCAPE MARRIAGE

"Imported automobiles, French maids and the man I don't love, don't look as good to me as six per, a hall bedroom and all the freedom that I want."

This is the philosophy of 16-year-old Emily Douglas, who was taken in charge by the police yesterday morning, when she arrived in Atlanta, fleeing from her home in Daytona, Fla., she claims, because her parents insist on her marriage to a man she doesn't even like.

She was taken to the Tower and placed under the care of the matron. F. W. Haskell, fiance of her sister, who came from Jacksonville, Fla., to intercept her, tried to persuade her to go back with him.

"I don't blame you for not wanting to marry, but you ought to go back to your mother and sister," he told her.

To this she assented. "I'll go back, but I won't marry. I'd rather work in a factory than marry him."

FEAST FOR NEWSBOYS ON TUESDAY, MAY 13

Six hundred Atlanta newsies are happy today, for each of the number was given a ticket yesterday to the big feast which the S. V. D. fraternity is going to give in their honor in the Young Men's Christian association hall Tuesday night, May 13.

A number of the most prominent men in the city are going to pay $3 for the privilege of sitting at the table with the boys, among these being men especially interested in boy welfare.

One of the most talented child impersonators in the country has been engaged to entertain the guests of the evening, and will be brought down from the north for this especial occasion by the S. V. D. boys.

While every newsboy in the city is entitled to a ticket free, no older person may attend except by payment of $3 for the privilege.

DEPUTY SINGS HYMNS AT THE LEGAL SALES

The little crowd of possible purchasers who attended the sheriff's sales yesterday morning witnessed something new, when, in order to show the worth of the song books which were being sold, Deputy J. W. Chambers mounted the platform and warbled one verse of one of the most appropriate selections.

The books were three dozen Sacred Harp song books sold as the property of the Southern Express company, and listed among matter upon which expressage had not been paid.

John Owens, chief deputy sheriff, in the absence of Sheriff C. W. Mangum acted as auctioneer, and was waiting for bids when the suggestion was made that as deputy he should render a selection from the books.

The deputy complied and chose "Murillo's Lesson." In a few minutes the three dozen books were knocked down to T. L. Francis for $3. Deputy Owens claims that the exceeding low bids were due to the singing, while friends of Deputy Chambers declare that if he had sung another verse that the books would have brought double what they did.

MAY RAIN IS EXPECTED; FIRST OF THE MONTH

The first drop of rain that has fallen in Georgia since April is expected early today by the local weather bureau which forecasts showers and cooler weather for Wednesday. The rain is due to be local to north Georgia and its effect on this section will be to lower the temperature which ran up to 86 degrees at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

That the present month of which practically one-fifth has elapsed, had been without rainfall throughout the entire state was not realized at the local weather bureau until a glance at reports from the various stations Tuesday showed a zero in the "rainfall column" of every weather man in every town and village where there is a station.

MEN "HIGHER UP" ARE FOUND GUILTY

Four Police Inspectors of New York Convicted of Conspiracy to Prevent Disclosures Regarding Graft.

New York, May 6.—James P. Thompson, James E. Hussey, John J. Murtha and Dennis Sweeney, the four demoted police inspectors, charged with a conspiracy to obstruct justice, were convicted by a jury in the supreme court shortly after 8 o'clock tonight.

Only 38 minutes were taken by the jurors to reach their verdict that the defendants were guilty of a misdemeanor in plotting to keep a prospective witness against the "system" from making graft disclosures before the grand jury.

The accused officials stood outwardly unmoved as they heard the verdict. The crowd in the courtroom caused a disturbance, shuffling chairs and feet until attendants checked the disorder. The prisoners gave their pedigrees and after being remanded for sentence Friday were returned to their cells. Counsel announced that a certificate of reasonable doubt will be sought, which would give the prisoners a chance to go free on bail pending efforts to obtain a new trial.

Only One Ballot Needed.

The penalty for obstruction of justice is one year in jail or a fine of $500 or both. It was reported that the jury required only one ballot to reach its decision.

An attorney for the defense declared the verdict was "a shock" and the briefness of the jury's deliberations a "surprise." Another of the prisoners' lawyers said no other verdict was expected. "The atmosphere of the city of New York is surcharged at the present time with a determination to convict," he said.

The conviction of Thompson, Hussey, Murtha and Sweeney is regarded by Mr. Whitman as the most important yet won in connection with his expose of the police "system" that was shown to link law enforcers with the city's underworld, when Becker, the police lieutenant, hired the four gunmen to murder Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, last summer.

The men were on trial seven court days. District Attorney Whitman and assistants produced evidence to show that the four plotted to buy the silence of George A. Shipp, a resort keeper, through bribing him to flee the state last December, after he had told the aldermanic committees that was investigating the police department that for years he had made monthly payments to the police for protection for his resort.

Bribed With $2,000.

Upon being returned to the court's jurisdiction he declared he had been bribed with $2,000 to leave. The prosecutor's inquiry into his story resulted in the joint indictment of the defendants, then inspectors.

During the trial the state introduced evidence tending to show that graft payments by Shipp reached the defendants, who in turn, commanded the Harlem district, where Shipp's hotel was located. The tribute was collected for Thomas Walsh, who was captain of a Harlem precinct, and Walsh divided with the inspectors according to his confession. The amount of graft exacted was in dispute during the trial, but Mr. Whitman, in summing up this afternoon, stated it was $42,000 a year in Walsh's precinct alone. Walsh and Shipp were the state's chief witnesses.

The prosecution also contended that besides the Shipp fund, a bribe sum of $15,000 was planned by the defendants to furnish bail for Eugene Fox, a policeman, and to provide for his family if he went to jail without "squealing." Fox awaits sentence for bribery as Walsh's graft collector, his confession terminating the necessity of a fund by the "system" to insure his silence.

The final day of the trial was occupied by the completion of summing up for the defense, Mr. Whitman's argument for the state and the courts charge to the jury. The prosecutor emphasized what he declared was the weakness of the case of the defense—alibis, character testimony and efforts to discredit some of the prosecution's witnesses on the ground that they were graft givers and graft takers. The case went to the jury in the early evening.

Other Indictments Pending.

Other indictments are pending against Thompson, Hussey, Murtha and Sweeney. Against Sweeney are thirteen, also for bribery. All have to do with alleged acceptance of graft paid for police protection. District Attorney Whitman was non-committal tonight as to his further procedure in these cases. He preferred to await to court's action on sentence day before declaring himself, he said. In summing up today, however, he called the jury's attention to the fact that the defendants face further prosecution. He explained why he called the conspiracy case before trying the four individually on the bribery indictments.

"I wanted you to hear the testimony of Captain Walsh, and I think it is apparent to you that he is in the valley of the shadow of death."

Walsh confessed to grafting at a time when his physicians believed he was on his death bed, a grand jury taking testimony at his home. While this testimony was material in the conspiracy case, it does not figure in the bribery indictments against Hussey, Thompson and Murtha, according to the prosecutor.

UNDERWOOD BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED BY HOUSE

Washington, May 6.—A democratic-republican love feast was held in the house as consideration of the taxing provisions of the tariff bill drew to a close. The occasion was the birthday of Representative Underwood.

Minority Leader Mann announced that he wished to put aside partisan feeling for a time and talk personally. He told the house that fifty-one years ago "one of the ablest men in public life first saw the light of day" and congratulated the "democratic party and the American people that during the fifty-one years of his life there has grown to greatness and bigness the able gentleman from Alabama, Mr. Underwood."

Amid a roar of applause from both sides of the chamber Mr. Underwood thanked Mr. Mann for his congratulations.

Practically every chamber of commerce in the country has indorsed this movement and the business men of the country are looking forward to the day when penny postage will be the rule.

LUTHER J. GLENN WILL BE TRIED TOMORROW

Trial of Luther J. Glenn, the Atlanta man recently arrested in Texas, where it was charged he had eloped with Mrs. Ione Pidcock, and now held on a charge of abandoning his minor children, is set for Thursday morning in Judge Andy Calhoun's city court.

Glenn entered a formal plea of not guilty when arraigned Monday, and the fact that Sam D. Hewlett, one of the attorneys for the prosecution, was engaged in another case, made necessary a postponement. Attorney L. F. McClelland represents Glenn.

Dr. Belk to Preach.

Dr. S. R. Belt, pastor Park Street Methodist Episcopal church, south, preaches the baccalaureate sermon to the faculty and students of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute in the Cosmopolitan A. M. E. church, corner Vine and Foundry streets, next Sunday at 3 o'clock sharp. The closing exercises of the school will take place in the same church Friday night, May 16. The friends of the school and of this sort of training for the negro masses are urged by the school authorities to attend, and note what they have been trying to do for the masses of their people.

THREAT TO CUT WAGES RESULTS IN A PROBE

Washington, May 6.—An investigation of wages and conditions in the pottery industry was started today by the department of commerce because of threatened reductions in wages which certain manufacturers claimed would be made necessary by the tariff reductions on pottery in the Underwood bill. The investigation will probably be extended to other industries. Secretary Redfield expressed the determination to get at the facts as to the present conditions in the pottery industry. If a decrease in wages follows the passage of the tariff bill, he will have statistics to present to congress to show comparisons between present and future conditions.

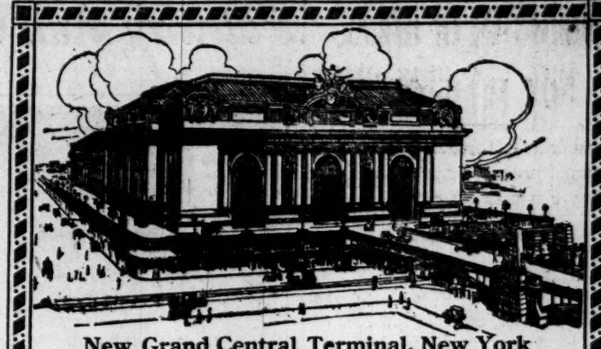

DYING MAN CONFESSES TO QUADRUPLE MURDER

Newport, Tenn., May 6.—Raving just before dying of consumption, William Fine, aged 50, is alleged to have claimed that he had the blood of four persons on his hands and that he could not expect forgiveness. Just before his death, after reciting his alleged misdeeds, he became quiet and claimed to see angels in the room.

The incident created much interest throughout the country, where three of the deaths to which he referred are said to have occurred.

A Drove of Florida Horses to Be Sold Tomorrow Morning at the Stock Yards to the Highest Bidders.

The Florida East Coast Hotel Company having closed for the season their leading hotels, and having no further use for the horses that have been used on their baggage trucks and carriages, in handling the "tourists," have consigned the same to J. W. Patterson at the Stock Yards, with positive instructions to sell each and every one without reserve to the highest bidders. This is an unusual opportunity for those in search of ready-to-work horses to get a bargain, as they are being sold for no "fault" other than lack of use. Having been in hard service up to last week eliminates all climatic troubles, making them a valuable and useful lot to the purchaser who wants them for immediate use during the coming hot summer days, when their rugged condition will prove its merit. The sale takes place tomorrow morning, promptly 10 a. m. (adv.)

NOMINATION OF HARRIS NOT YET CONFIRMED

Democrats, However, Will Put Him Through—Several Georgia Postmasters Confirmed.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 6.—(Special.)—William J. Harris' nomination was not confirmed by the senate today, being among the three or four contested ones that went over. It is only a question of time when he will be, however, as the democrats are determined to put him through.

The only democratic senator who is at all weak on Harris' nomination is Senator Martine, of New Jersey, who has been impressed by the argument that E. Dana Durand, the incumbent, should be permitted to serve until July 1.

In the meantime Mr. Durand would appoint all the reporters of crops and ginners' statistics.

The following Georgia postmasters were confirmed:

Carollton, W. F. Brown; Colquitt, Henry M. Miller; Fayetteville, Samuel B. Lewis; Louisville, Charles V. Clarke; Sandersville, Andrew J. Irwin; Social Circle, Mattie E. Gunter.

The president today forwarded to the senate the nomination of Sinclair C. Townsend to be collector of customs for the district of St. Marys, Ga.

Representative Crisp has put Miss Julia Lathrop's letter in regard to the Ollie Taylor case in the Congressional Record, in the effort to give the widest publicity to the facts discovered by the head of the children's bureau in regard to the sensational reports that a Georgia white boy had been sentenced to a long term in jail for stealing a five-cent bottle of soda water. Miss Lathrop found that under the juvenile law Taylor was sent to the reformatory as an incorrigible.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Harris have arrived in Washington, but will leave in a few days for Baltimore, where Mrs. Harris will be placed in Johns Hopkins to undergo treatment.

Harry P. Meikleham, manager of the Massachusetts mills at Lindale, was a visitor here today. He is greatly interested in the cotton schedule of the Underwood bill, and insists there are a number of inconsistencies in the bill that ought to be corrected.

Volney Williams, editor of The Waycross Journal, who was J. Pope Brown's campaign manager, is here. He is understood to be a candidate for the position of postmaster. Others mention are Dr. G. P. Folks, Edgar D. Carswell, J. D. Crawford, Dr. W. H. Buchanan and A. H. Morgan. The last-named is now assistant postmaster.

HER MIND IN BLANK, GIRL OF WAYCROSS WANDERS FROM HOME

Waycross, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Somewhere in the vicinity of Waycross, unless she has been lured away by unknown parties, Miss Lee Hall, a pretty 15-year-old girl, daughter of J. H. Hall, is wandering, her mind apparently blank. She left her home early yesterday, eluding her father and a party of neighbors who tried to catch her.

Miss Hall led the chase into a small swamp, bordering Kettle creek, and a thorough all-day search failed to reveal her whereabouts. Her father today said he did not think a man was involved in his daughter's strange disappearance, as she has never seemed to care much for boys.

The girl is described as being of medium height, light hair, blue eyes, fair skin and weight a little over a hundred. When last seen she wore a black skirt, light shirtwaist and white hat. Officers of all towns within a radius of fifty miles have been aiding the father in his search. Acting on the suggestion that the girl may have been lured away by some one, police in the larger cities will be asked to be on the lookout for the girl.

$3,500,000 Capitol for Missouri.

NAVAL STORES FACTORS PLAN HOLDING COMPANY

Seventy-Five Per Cent of Spirit, Turpentine and Rosin Men Represented at Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., May 6.—Naval stores factors, representing 75 per cent of the growers of spirits, turpentine and rosins, met here this morning at 10 o'clock and took the first step toward entering into an agreement to protect their interests. The present chaotic state of the market has caused the meeting. About all that was done this morning was to get a general idea as to how the producers stood and it was found that they were unanimous in the opinion that an organization was a necessity.

There will be another meeting, at which the details of the plan of operation will be worked out. That there is to be formed a holding company for the protection of the producers is quite certain.

"We have ceased to consider the American Naval Stores company in connection with th naval stores situation," said a prominent factor today. "The American is no longer an important feature of the naval stores world. Its affairs are to be liquidated and its business closed up."

WITH THE THEATERS

"The Girl From Out Yonder."

(At the Atlanta.)

This afternoon Billy Long and the members of the stock company in her support will be seen in the first matinee of the week, playing the fine comedy drama, "The Girl from Out Yonder," which scored such a hit the opening and last night. Miss Agnes Tinsley Harrison, the pretty Atlanta society girl who has an important part in the play, will be seen to excellent advantage and hundreds of her friends will doubtless be present to lend her encouragement. She has scored a hit second only to the hits scored by Miss Long and Mr. Vail. The company's work is showing wonderful improvement and a fine performance is certain this afternoon. No performance will be given tonight, but every other night and Saturday matinee the company will be busy. Next week the bill will be a screaming comedy, "Are You a Mason." Seats will be placed on sale at the matinee today.

Keith Vaudeville.

Unusual interest has been evidenced in the bill at the Forsyth this week. Beautiful Belle Story, the singing star, has grown ever so popular with theatre patrons who have enjoyed her marvelous talents. Miss Story does not sing ragtime(but she scores as great a hit with sweet and dainty songs that appeal. Williams, Thompson and Copeland in their absurd comedy sketch, "The Burglars' Union," win a laughing hit, and the Six Steppers do some dancing that has won genuine approval. The headline act is a Gus Edwards creation, "The Kid Cabaret," and it is an act worthy of the honor position.

ATLANTA AD MEN HAVE GREAT TIME

The Atlanta Ad Men's club packed Cafe Denechaud to its capacity last night wehn 150 members and their invited guests gathered for the long-heralded "Gigantic Jag of Joy," which proved the most successful get-together-and-get-acquainted meeting in the history of the organization.

Every one was tagged with large trunk checks, "I am so-and-so, who are you?" and every one knew everybody else before the French-Italian dinner was concluded, and the smoker and vaudeville was under way.

Bess Jordan scored a decided hit in her songs from the balcony, accompanied by the canaries warbling in the cages overhead and every encore greeted her with the Ad Men's chorus:

"They say Bess Jordan ain't got no style;
But she's style all the while, all the while, all the while!"

When President Harry Goodhart suggested that they had a program they would like to carry out, if they got a chance, the chance was given and the program was carried out. Finally the merriment and laughter subsided when Mr. Bain was introduced as the card shark who would rival Thurston. He tried his best to get some money from the crowd and make it disappear, but the diners were not anxious to see their money evaporate. They did applaud Mr. Bain's card tricks, many of which proved a mystery, even to the initiated. Then Mac Jones, a new addition to the ranks of Atlanta Ad Men, drew considerable attention with several clever cartoons of the great and near great members. Harry Goodhart, Billy Parkhurst, "Santa" Loundsburg, Mr. Denechaud and Fred Houser were among the victims of the facile brush of Artist Mac Jones.

Fred Houser's photo caused the greatest merriment. He was asked to turn his head for a profile picture, and every one in the house was convulsed with laughter when a pair of long ears appeared on the canvas.

Excitement interrupted the program when President Goodhart announced that the waiters reported the silver missing. He directed a search of all "suspicious" characters, and the silver was soon found by self-appointed sleuths in the pockets of F. J. Merriam, publisher of a farm journal, who colored to the roots of his hair, but enjoyed the joke when he learned his pockets had been stuffed.

Practical jokes galore were perpetrated on the unsuspecting, and the evening's merriment was accelerated by the musical entertainers, Bess Jordan, Beulah Dawson and Louis Kilpatrick.

Plans for attending the national convention in Baltimore next June were outlined by Bert Adams. Two Pullman cars will be at the disposal of the Atlantans and fifty delegates have already signed up for the trip. All who go must wear uniform gray suits, blue hose and straw hats and the Atlanta contingent will march in the Baltimore parade, which will be a series of spectacular floats representing the widely-advertised articles of the day.

An invitation by the Burns club to attend a barbecue next Saturday was accepted by the members present and they will attend in a body.

BOXING BOUTS GIVEN FOR ILLINOIS SOLONS

Springfield, Ill., May 6.—Members of the legislature, state officials and municipal officers from a number of cities witnessed a scientific boxing entertainment here tonight. The affair was given in the interest of Senator Carroll's bill, which would legalize ten-round bouts in Illinois. Similar bills are pending in house committees. Fifteen hundred persons witnessed four bouts. Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, was present and was called upon to speak. He declined, but the official announcer said that if the legislature gives its official approval to the Carroll senate bill Mayor Harrison will allow bouts to be staged in Chicago.

The first bout was between Fred Gilmore and "Mickey" Sheridan, of Chicago, who went three fast rounds. The second bout brought together Jimmie Barry, who retired the undefeated bantam champion of the world, and Johnny Coulon, of Chicago, present holder of the bantam title. Barry and Coulon went two rounds and the former showed much of his old-time cleverness. Coulon then took on Frankie White, of Chicago, for two rounds. Representative Frank McNichols, of Chicago, was the referee in the Coulon bouts.

Coulon addressed the spectators and pleaded for the passage of the pending bill.

Representative George Hilton, of Chicago, who also has a bill in the house to legalize boxing, went four rounds with Pete Boyle, also of Chicago. There was little science in this event and the participants wore "pillow" gloves to prevent injury.

The last number was a fast four-round bout between Packey McFarland and Willie Schafer, both of Chicago. Senator Carroll, of Chicago, was the referee.

INDUSTRIAL BUREAU FOR ATLANTA ASSURED

At last the industrial bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has become a reality. The committee reported favorably yesterday, and within a few days President Wilmer Moore will appoint another committee to rapidly organize the new body, and attend to all necessary matters in that connection.

One of the special functions of this bureau will be to bring new manufacturing plants to Atlanta. Other cities in the south have found that the industrial bureau is a most important adjunct of the chamber of commerce, and it thought that this one here will immediately prove its value.

Peace Congress a Success.

WASHINGTON STREET VIADUCT SIDEWALK CAUSE OF COMPLAINT

Because portions of the Washington street viaduct are like a sieve on account of innumerable holes where small glass lights ought to be, and have been, a number of people are making complaint.

Ladies who have to cross the viaduct on foot when attending entertainments at the Auditorium, say that they are frequently tripped up and heels are wrenched from their shoes.

A portion of the sidewalk on the viaduct is covered with glass that has nearly all broken out.

Class Social Postponed. .

The class social of class No. 3, of the Second Baptist Church Bible school, which was to have been held next Thursday night, has been postponed a week and will be held on the following Thursday night, according to the announcement of William Hurd Hillyer, teacher of the class.

Start Your Baby With Sound Health

Regular Bowel Movement from Childhood on Forestalls Future Serious Diseases

DIXIE ASKEW DUDLEY

We cannot all start life with the advantages of money, but every child born is entitled to the heritage of good health. Through unfortunate ignorance or carelessness in the feeding of a baby its tiny stomach may become deranged. The disorder spreads to the bowels and before the mother realizes it the two chief organs on which the infant's comfort and health depend are causing it great suffering. If the condition is allowed to continue grave ailments often result.

There is, however, no occasion for alarm, and the sensible thing to do—but it should be done instantly—is to give the baby a small dose of a mild laxative-tonic. In the opinion of a great many people, among them such well-known persons as the parents of Dixie Dudley, Magnolia, Ark., the proper remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. Earl Dudley writes: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best medicine I ever used. It cured my baby of flatulency colic when the doctors failed; it cured my husband of constipation. My home shall never be without Syrup Pepsin." It is a pleasant-tasting laxative, which every person likes. It is mild, non-griping, and contains that most excellent of all digestants, pepsin.

This remedy is especially intended for infants, children, women, old people and all others to whom harsh cathartics, salt waters, pills, etc., are distressing. In fact, in the common disorders of life, such as constipation, liver trouble, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, and the various other disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels nothing is more suitable than this mild laxative-tonic, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Two generations of people are using it today, and thousands of families keep it constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, the latter being the size bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

ATLANTIC BEACH

THE NEW CITY BY THE SEA

Where do you spend your summers?
Why should you go to Northern resorts when you can find rest and recreation within a few hours of home?
Why go to the mountains when you can find surroundings quite as healthful by the ocean?
Why spend your money for the discomforts of crowded hotels, when for less money you can have all the comforts and conveniences of your own home?

Why not own a home of your own designing at Atlantic Beach, fitted up with your own belongings, electric lighted, plenty of good water, good sewers and perfect sanitation; good neighbors and good surroundings; five minutes' walk from the finest beach for ocean surf-bathing on the South Atlantic coast; miles of smooth roads for your automobile, the coolest of summer breezes, good stores for marketing, good transportation, and all the comforts that make a summer in the South ideal?

These things are possible at Atlantic Beach. It is only seventeen miles from Jacksonville, with which it is connected by one of the finest hard-surfaced roads in the South, by a convenient steam railroad schedule, and by the promise of an electric line within a short time.

It is not an expensive proposition. The cost of the summer vacations in distant Northern resorts will pay for a home here and furnish it in a few seasons. You can occupy it for half the year and rent it the other half.

Atlantic Beach is a new city. It adjoins the famous Continental Hotel, one of the finest resorts in Florida, and its building is opening up to permanent residents the wonderfully attractive features of this seaside place.

This property extends for five miles along the finest ocean beach in the country, and extends back over hundreds of acres of wonderfully beautiful palm and oak hammock. Historic spots, Indian mounds and shell mounds are scattered through it, and magnificent drives lead to them. There is no more interesting place in the South.

Come and see it. If you cannot come, write for information. Find out about it. It is the most important home-building development ever undertaken in the South. Strong men with abundant capital are behind it.

INEFFICIENCY AGAIN.

In communications published elsewhere Mrs. M. R. Emmons and J. S. Cook add another chapter to the familiar story of municipal inefficiency. Peachtree from Sixth street to the limits, and Ivy street between its junction with Peachtree and its intersection with Auburn are now being visited with a plague of dust. These two thoroughfares are in the hands of the construction forces of the city, Peachtree being repaved and Ivy regraded.

Mrs. Emmons bears witness to the exact truth when she says that the homes along Peachtree, a thoroughfare traveled by people from every section of the city, are almost uninhabitable because of the dust created by the operations of the workers. It is impossible to sit on porches. If housewives wish to protect their furniture and interior furnishings from ruin they must keep windows closed—this in weather which is essentially that of the open window.

Conditions on Ivy street are as bad or worse. A brigade of shovelers and trains of wagon are engaged all day in removing dirt from the street's surface. The dust clouds are overwhelming. Life just at present on both of these streets more nearly resembles a struggle for survival in the sand storms of the Sahara than in the center of a city assumed to be highly civilized and efficiently administered.

Disease, no less than money loss and inconvenience, rises from these conditions. In permitting such a situation to arise and continue, the city is simply pursuing the old, slipshod, neglectful, happy-go-lucky course that is visible in every other municipal channel. She is overlooking the little, but essential, details that have so important a bearing on capable administration. It would have been easy enough while the work on Peachtree was proceeding to make provision for sprinkling the street. The same process would have minimized the discomforts of Ivy street.

Even now it is not too late to afford relief. It is the duty of the authorities to lose no time in applying measures such as will make life bearable on these streets. Elemental intelligence should guard against their recurrence. If the city is to penalize with plagues of dust all those who agree to improvements, progress will be more difficult than ever.

NOT SO BAD AS PAINTED.

The following extract from the recent grand jury charge of Judge W. D. Ellis is a model, and the sentiment is worth preserving:

I do not sympathize with the common cry that humanity is all bad. I do not believe that the tendency of humanity is for the bad. I believe that it is unfair to cry out in a sort of wail of despair because crime is committed. I doubt if the holding out to public view of all the frailties of the human tide is conducive to the public good. There is no perfect community anywhere, and probably never will be upon the face of this world of ours; but in trying to elevate and promote good citizenship, in trying to suppress crime and disorder, we should not be led into the error of bringing reproach upon the people of one the best communities in the world, by exploiting the misdeeds of a few. Let us rather contend for reaching to the high level of honesty and virtue, and at the same time ferret out and punish the guilty who are upon us, and who, by their conduct, violate the laws which condemn the vicious, and which give praise to and provide for the well being and safety of the good.

The past few years in this country constitute pre-eminently the era of the muckraker. His poisonous trail has run and is now running over each channel of public thought, each avenue of public activity; his jaundiced venom is infecting the larger part of the body-politic; as a nation we are obsessed with suspicion, ignoring the good in life and inclined to judge it as a whole only by its unrepresentative, nauseous and abnormal elements. The sane viewpoint of Judge Ellis is refreshing. People should ponder its lessons. Judging only by the blaring utterances of the muckraker, and having no facilities for ascertaining the truth of details, what sort of opinion would the average foreigner carry away from this country? He would think that our people were perfidious, degraded; our officials and statesmen corrupt; our society steadily going to the devil.

Why this warped and wholly unjustified public attitude? Because the muckraker has pampered our intellectual palates until they can distinguish only the morbid; he has cajoled people, not into viewing things as they are, but into viewing them only through his diseased vision and his smoked glasses. What is the result? Whatever good transpires is dismissed with a few newspaper lines and in a few days is forgotten. Right of way is given the doings of the evil. Virtue as it appears in the world-news is minimized; vice, in the space and emphasis given it, is glorified.

Week before last constituted a southern epoch in the presence here of grand opera. The events of those seven days would have filled columns with gripping human interest items. The papers of the country gave the week itself a small paragraph and let it go. Hardly had the grand opera week ended than the Mary Phagan story "broke." Newspapers the nation over could not get enough of it; daily they clamored for "more" and "more" and "more." What more convincing contrast could be offered? In the case of Atlanta one would be justified by the news going from this city in believing that it was a stronghold of iniquity. As a matter of fact, for a place of its size it is freer from gambling, drunkenness, prostitution and other vices than any city in the country.

But the muckraker is king! Everybody is frail and the world is going to the devil generally! We need heroic doses of the sturdy and wholesome views of Judge Ellis. We need to realize the privilege of living in the cleanest, most progressive and most reconstructive age in all history, and to know that the sun today shines on more actual and unassuming good, on more triumphant battles against vice and wrong-doing and on more protection of the weak against the strong than at any previous time in all history. But the muckraker won't admit it!

A SPUR TO DEMOCRACY.

The sane and independent Springfield Republican warns the country that there will be no adequate opposition to the democratic party until the republicans and the Roosevelt "progressives" reach an understanding. It also remarks, significantly, that indications of this understanding are already in evidence, especially in the west where the first insurrection against the republican party came into existence.

These comments are almost identical with those passed by The Constitution after the democratic tidal wave of last November. At that time we bade the democratic hosts beware of overconfidence, pointing out that had "progressive" and republican contingents united the democracy would probably have lost the last national campaign. We also contended that opposition to the party was not dead nor sleeping and that sooner or later it would manifest itself in aggressive form. Our guess, then, was that the bull moose wing would capture the old stand-pat wing. Though little of a definite nature has happened since then, there is really little reason to alter the terms of this prophecy.

In the long run, however, it makes no especial difference to the democracy whether the "progressives" swallow the republican stand-patters, or vice versa. The thing that counts is that through the length and breadth of the two opposing political organizations there run evidence of an approaching understanding. That understanding has not yet reached the stage of an organization in either house or senate, though it would not be surprising to witness the formation of such an understanding before the assembling of congress in December.

Once the two warring republican cliques have formed even a tentative alliance, the test is going to be squarely up to democracy. The party can and will be invulnerable against such a combination if in the meantime it fulfills all pledges, buries all dissensions and leaves no just ground for criticism. That is the main lesson from the signs of harmony in the enemy's camp. Opposition to the democracy can flourish only on the mistakes or the bad faith of the party. The country is watching and waiting as well as the new and old-line republicans. It expects that the expressed and implied mandates of the past campaign senate will do well to bear in mind these mandates are ignored or fumbled in redemption, the country will lose no time in turning to whatever opposition party offers the most hope of defeating democracy. Leaders of the administration in house and senate will do well to bear in mind these facts as well as the signs of readjustment even now visible within the ranks of the opposition.

Gossip Caught in Corridors Of the National Capitol

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 6.—(Special.)—A determined purpose to rid the civil service rolls of those who do not belong there has been shown by the democrats in congress.

This inquiry presages a big shake-up in all the executive departments. Senator Overman, of North Carolina, the author of a resolution of inquiry, says the law has been a sham and a pretense, and that the old spoils system is better than a law that clothes political deceit.

John Corrigan, Jr.

Senator Pomerene, of Ohio, has also expressed positive views on the subject. He is chairman of the committee on civil service and retrenchment, which will conduct the investigation either under a resolution he has introduced or that of Senator Overman. The committee will meet on Tuesday to make plans for the investigation.

His committee will not be a merely ornamental one, but will undertake a really gigantic task. Persons who have obtained a place on the rolls in the last twenty years through nepotism and political favoritism will be denied the protection of a law with with which they have never complied. Thousands of government employees have been covered under the civil service by executive proclamation, as was done in the case of 40,000 fourth-class postmasters by President Taft.

Senators Pomerene and Overman both declare they have no disposition to disturb employees of the government who have won their places by taking examinations in good faith and who have been certified through the civil service commission in the regular way. But he does object to extending the protecting arm of the civil service to men and women who were appointed through irregular methods by executive order waiving the civil service examination and requirements, by influential relatives, who ignored civil service barriers, or by blanket orders issued by the executive at convenient seasons, by which groups of persons on temporary rolls came into the service without taking any examination whatsoever.

Easy to Get Facts.

The democrats believe that the list of employees should show those who passed examinations to get their jobs and those who "crawled under the tent," to use a vernacular familiar to circusgoers. It will be easy to get at the facts. It is proposed to require every clerk under oath to state when and how he or she came into the service. Other important disclosures will be required, such as the state from which the appointee hails and how long they lived there before appointment, whether they have relatives in the service and how many.

It is admitted that many persons claiming residence in certain states for office holding purposes never could establish bona fide residence in such states. In many instances they went to the states for a brief stay to gain a residence and to take advantage of a locality which had a small quota in the civil service, thereby making their chance of appointment more certain.

Favors Honest Civil Service.

"I am in favor of an honest civil service," said Senator Pomerene, "but I have been reliable informed that fewer than 30 per cent of the persons now holding government jobs took civil service examinations. The others came through favoritism. Such people have no right to set themselves up as having vested interests that cannot be taken away from them, and refer to others seeking government employment as 'office-seekers.'"

There is no doubt but what the senator's efforts will be denounced as an attack upon the "sacred civil service," and there will be a general howl all over the country. This will, however, have little effect upon Senator Pomerene, and he is already assured of support in the senate. He will not be deterred by protests. The civil service, unless something slips, is destined for a thorough probe.

Osborne Is Determined.

William H. Osborne, the new commissioner of internal revenue, has entered office with the determination to enforce absolutely the internal revenue laws and wipe out the illicit distilling of whisky in the United States.

He comes to his present position with the experience of twenty years as the head of a Keeley Cure institute in Greensboro, N. C., which under his management became one of the most complete and scientifically conducted institutions of the kind in the country.

"What do you believe is the most serious effect of evasion of the internal revenue laws?" Colonel Osborne was asked.

"Through many years of close observation I have carefully noted that the coming of a 'blockading plant' to a community is invariably followed by a wave of crime extending often to perjury, arson and murder. The degrading effect is not confined to the whisky distillers themselves, but has a distinctly immoral effect upon the people who trade in the illicit product and others who, having knowledge of the breaking of the laws, are determined to shield them. A man cannot continually break the law, or shield another who is breaking the laws without acquiring a viciousness, and disregard of every-day morals and human life.

"I had opportunity to observe this class of lawbreakers while I served as one of a committee of three which completely reorganized the North Carolina penitentiary back in 1890. That experience was also helpful to me, in that I gained knowledge of how to organize and conduct a large business institution.

Prefers It to Cabinet.

"If President Wilson had given me my choice of a position under the government I believe I would have chosen the position of commissioner of internal revenue in preference to any other," he said. "I would even prefer it to one of the cabinet positions. It is a work with which I have been connected to a certain extent for twenty years, and it will give me great pleasure to be in a position where I can try out some of the ideas I have formed in regard to the absolute stopping of all illicit distillation of whisky. I believe it can be done with the proper co-operation on the part of the legitimate whisky manufacturers."

"Do you think you will reorganize the working machinery of any of the divisions under your department?"

"I doubt if it will be found necessary to do much reorganizing. The office of the internal revenue commissioner is one of the most smoothly running machines I have ever seen, and it speaks well for the administration of the former commissioners. Every little detail has been carefully worked out apparently, and there seems to be the best of co-operation between the different divisons of the service.

"Of course, after I have observed its workings at close range for a few weeks I may discover some faults and instances where red tape can be eliminated and short cuts made, or where it will be advisable to adopt different methods in handling certain phases of the department's work.

Born in North Carolina.

The new commissioner was born in Granville county, North Carolina, February 21, 1856, the same year President Wilson was born. His father was a prominent tobacco manufacturer, and he went to work in his father's factory upon leaving school. When he reached the age of 21 he struck out for himself and opened a little tobacco factory at Durham, later forming a partnership with the Cooper-Blackwell company.

In 1892 he went to Greensboro as head of the Keeley institute, but for a few years continued in the tobacco business as a buyer, until the institute expanded and became so extensive it monopolized all his time. In this work he had a chance to study at first hand the terrible effect of overindulgence in liquor.

"Do you believe that the internal revenue service, with its present force of employees in the field, can entirely stamp out the illicit distillation of whisky?" he was asked.

"Yes. I believe it can be done, with the proper co-operation on the part of the honest whisky distillers. I remember about thirty years ago, at the time when a large amount of tobacco was being manufactured and sold in North Carolina without the payment of the governmtnt tax. A meeting of the tobacco manufacturers was held in Raleigh. At that meeting every manufacturer pledged his word that he would not attempt to evade any payment of the government revenue tax, and, furthermore, pledged his word that he would inform the revenue officers of every instance of such evasion on the part of any other person. From that day the 'blockading' of tobacco in North Carolina ceased, practically. The moral effect on the community was also marked.

"Now, if the whisky manufacturers would get together," continued Colonel Osborne, "and agree to extend every effort to close up all the 'blind tigers' in the country, by informing the revenue officers of every instance of evasion of the revenue laws, all the 'blockaders' could be put out of business in twelve months. And then the legitimate distiller would rid himself of the competition with the more cheaply produced goods."

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON
The Famous Prose Poet

The Punctual Man

"I had an appointment with Mr. Potiphar at 3 o'clock this afternoon," said the melancholy boarder. "I was there to the minute, and waited nearly an hour before he came. I think there ought to be a law compelling people to be punctual. I'm always on time myself, and I haven't much use for people who don't keep their appointments by the clock."

"That's the intolerant attitude of all punctual men," remarked the star boarder. "I have known many men who prided themselves upon their punctuality, and they all were disagreeable. It's a curious fact that the man who has the virtue of punctuality seldom has any other virtues. He thinks that this one characteristic atones for everything. Does he foreclose his mortgage on a widow's cottage and drive that afflicted female and her twenty-three children into the street? Well, he always keeps his appointment sto the minute, and his trifling errors should be overlooked. Does he send his aged parents to the poorhouse, while he burns up the king's highway in his motor car? It must be remembered that he's never a minute late keeping an appointment. He magnifies his one virtue until it fills the whole landscape, and he can't see any of the smaller ones, which are struggling for existence in its shade.

"Punctuality, my dear Mrs. Jiggers, is nothing but the essence of selfishness. Suppose I make an appointment to meet a merchant prince at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. I arrive at his trade palace just as the clock is striking the hour, and have to wait half an hour. If I made a hobby of punctuality I'd be grinding my teeth and pulling my hair out, and muttering threats of vengeance. I'd be making up my mind to write a ringing communication to my favorite newspaper, dwelling upon the enormity of the offense of being late. No extenuating circumstances would present themselves to my mind. But, as I am not a punctual man, and consequently not a selfish man, I'd take things easy and reflect that I might as well wait where I was as anywhere else. It would occur to me at once that something unavoidable had detained the merchant prince. He might have been run over by an auto truck, or hit by a casting from an airship. After a while the merchant prince would arrive, and apologize for being late, and I'd take advantage of the occasion to borrow $5 from him. If I met him with reproachful glances, and said something about the beauties of punctuality, it would be impossible to borrow a cent from him.

"The punctual man makes new enemies every day. He's always making superfluous appointments, hoping that the other fellow will be late, which will give him a chance to growl when he sits down to the groaning board, and to parade his one lonely snow-capped virtue. The other fellow's pretty sure to be late, for comparatively few reasonable men are cranks on the subject of being on time, and then the punctual man makes him sore by his growls and complaints.

"In recent years punctuality has become a foolish fad in the business world. In business houses clerks and other employees are expected to be at their work at a certain hour. If they are a minute or two late they are docked a week's salary. Nothing could be more unjust, Mrs. Jiggers. Nothing could be more subversive of that feeling of cordiality which is essential to the conduct of business. You can't expect the young man who has been docked to care three hurrahs whether his employers go broke or not. A young man, let us say, spends the long evenings playing billiards or poker or other instructive games. He has a bad run of luck, and when he retires to his boudoir at 5 o'clock in the morning he is dead broke, and in debt to a considerable amount. However, he reflects, as he goes to sleep, he'll square up everything on his payday. But after his exhausting toil he sleeps soundly and when he gets round to the office he is half an hour late. Then he finds that there won't be any payday that week. Is it any wonder that he loses confidence in his fellow men, that ambition dies in his breast? How can he do his work with enthusiasm or wholesome pride? Answer me that, Mrs. Jiggers, and give me some of those pallid strawberries."

DUSTY PEACHTREE AND IVY DRAW CITIZENS' COMPLAINT

Peachtree Street.

Editor Constitution: The press has ever stood behind every reform for its city's improvement, and The Constitution has waged war and won so many splendid fights for our civic welfare, that once again I feel it will get behind a large majority of its long-suffering citizens and see that they get fair play.

It is generally conceded that Peachtree street is the most traveled thoroughfare of the city, for business and pleasure. Necessarily the dust is heaviest on this street.

As taxpayers, I feel the city owes the residents of Peachtree street protection from this awful scourge of dust.

For some years we have ceased to enjoy the pleasure of our porches—in fact, we can hardly keep our windows open. The dust has become a menace to health.

I believe it is up to our city to give some care and protection to the property owners who have done their part in making this street attractive. We have literally eaten the dust for years, and I believe every resident on this avenue, as well as every pedestrian who travels it, will be grateful to you if you can bring us relief.

MRS. M. R. EMMONS.

Atlanta, Ga., May 5, 1913.

As to Ivy Street.

Editor Constitution: The dust from moving the immense amount of dirt on Ivy street is causing great inconvenience and hardship to the residents on that street, and is no doubt injuring the health of a great many people.

Copious sprinkling along the street at this time would be of great benefit, but the writer understands that to do this extra springling would add materially to the expense of those who live there, most of whom are renters, and do not feel called upon to stand this extra expense. Would it not be a good idea for the waterworks department, during a dry spell like this, to allow free water bills to the residents along Ivy street as an encouragement to sprinkle as much as possible?

This is merely thrown out as a suggestion, but the writer believes that if your paper will call upon our city fathers to do this simple act it will do an immense amount of good, if acted upon.

Hotel Guests Who Were Never Asked to Pay Their Bills.

By E. J. Edwards.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

At midday, in the summer of 1892, I shared in an informal luncheon with the late Admiral Melville and his warm personal friend, the late John Chamberlin, who was one time the proprietor of a hotel and restaurant at Washington, of which many of the leading politicians and members of congress and cabinet officers were very fond. It was at Mr. Chamberlin's restaurant that Roscoe Conkling took his meals for several years, and there Chester A. Arthur, when vice president of the United States, boarded, although he roomed elsewhere than in Mr. Chamberlin's hotel. At the luncheon Admiral Melville asked Mr. Chamberlin if he ever allowed distinguished public men to run up heavy bills.

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Chamberlin, "some of them were never paid. I was asked some years ago if I would take charge of the restaurant in the house of representatives. I didn't hesitate a moment. I said 'no,' and gave as my reason that I was too busy.

E. J. Edwards.

"My real reason was that I had learned that some of the stewards of the house restaurant had in the past suffered heavy losses through the delinquency of members of congress to settle their scores at the end of the session."

"But," said Admiral Melville, "you have had as a guest of your house now for some years, a very prominent man, who, it is commonly said, has run up a heavy bill, and that there is little or no chance that he will ever pay it."

"Well," said Mr. Chamberlin, "he is paying it, although he doesn't know it. His great prominence in public life have brought to him many valuable acquaintances. He is very popular. I presume it is true that he hasn't a penny in the world, but he can live at my house just as long as he wants to and have the best there is in the house.

"I will tell you the reason if you are careful not to let it get to his ears. His popularity and his record are so attractive that he brings a great deal of business to my house. He doesn't realize it; he doesn't know that I regard him as far more than earning for his board and lodging. He is a very sensitive man, and I am sure that if that idea ever entered his head he would get angry and leave me.

"We hotel proprietors," continued Mr. Chamberlin, "have some peculiar experiences, and that is especially true in Washington. I could write a book of most interesting anecdotes associated with public men in Washington, two of whom, at least, became president of the United States.

"There used to live at the old Arlington hotel, at Washington, a gentleman who at one time was very prominent in politics. He went to Washington to live, I think, about 1875. He invested all he had in a piece of unimproved land 3 or 4 miles out from the treasury department building. Almost everybody thought he was crazy to do that.

"This investment made him land poor. I think he did not have a dollar income. The taxes on this property were unpaid, and there were liens upon it. I once spoke to Roesselle, who was for many years the proprietor of the Arlington, about this man. There is a kind of freemasonry among the hotelkeepers, and we tell one another things in confidence.

Roesselle said to me that he had kept this man as a guest of his house for some five or six years, and during all that time he had never paid any board. A very large bill had accumulated against him.

"'But,' said Roesselle, this man is the soul of honor. He tells me that some day his property will change to riches because he will be able to sell his property at an enormous advance over what he paid on it. I have full confidence in him. Some day I shall get the full amount of my bill, with interest, and it will be a pretty large sum.'

"I think it was 4 or 5 years later," Mr. Chamberlin continued, "that Roesselle came into my place. He said that he wanted to remind me of a conversation he had with me about the guest he carried for so many years without the payment of a dollar on account.

"'Well,' said Roesselle, 'it has turned out exactly as I told you. The land boom has reached through and extended beyond his property. He has sold his land for a very large sum, which was paid in cash. The first thing he did after he received his money was to ask me to step into my private office with him. When I did so he asked me to make out my bill for all those years that he had boarded with me, including interest. I had my bookkeeper make out the bill. While this was being done he said to me that he was at last a rich man, as he viewed riches.

"'When the bill was handed to him he simply looked at the amount. It was well up in the thousands. Then he wrote a check for the entire amount and simply said: "Thank you, Roesselle."'"

"It Might Have Been."

It may be that Mr. Bryan would have preferred to be the man sending instead of the man sent.—Baltimore American.

About Crop Statistics.

Editor Constitution: A very small change in the blank forms that are sent out to county tax receivers would enable them to gather useful crop statistics at a mere trifle of cost in time or money. A few added columns with proper headings would be the only change necessary in the blanks.

Our gin reports already furnish accurate knowledge of the number of bales of cotton produced. A column for the number of acres planted to cotton would enable us to tell the yield per acre. Two additional columns would gather the same information in regard to the corn crop—one for acreage and the other for total yield in bushels.

Our federal census gathers this information in decennial periods, but it is four years old when we get it. Other leading crops, such as oats, wheat, hay, etc., could be included, if desired; but we certainly ought to know what we are doing in the matter of corn, as well as cotton.

Many organizations and agencies are giving valued and helpful aid toward bringing about better methods and conditions on our farms. Definite knowledge as to what is being done on the farms would greatly aid in giving wise direction to all these forces.

The Regrade of Whitehall.

Editor Constitution: Your editorial in yesterday's paper concerning the regrading of Whitehall street is along the line of betterment to one of the principal thoroughfares in Atlanta, and one that has suffered many years by reason of delinquency in the proper officials not having done the work long years ago. This regrading project means more to Whitehall street and its side streets, to the south side, and to the whole city, than any project now before the community, or that has been before the community, cost considered, in a long while. I trust you will follow it up with enthusiasm and have the matter definitely decided to begin the work at an early date and finish, at least, the Whitehall part of the work during the present summer.

Get Married While Young.

You will hear some young man say: I cannot invite a girl, who has been brought up to do nothing for herself and to have every gratification and every luxury provided for her, to marry me until I can earn income which will enable her to live with me in that way. I have two remarks to make about that doctrine—that if a girl has been brought up in that manner, the sooner she has a chance to live differently the better for her, and, secondly, that it is only fair for a young man who loves a young woman to consult her as to whether or not she wishes to marry him before he can earn a large income.

The young woman has a clear right to say a word on that subject to the man she loves, and not be obliged to wait till he is 35 years old before he asks her to marry him. This is a matter of looking ahead at a critical point in your lives. You are not in the habit, perhaps, of contemplating this event of marriage. It would be wiser to do so. The sooner you begin to think about it the better—first, because it will be thinking about the most important event in your lives in respect to the development of your characters and to the happiness not only of yourselves, but of the women you will marry and of the family life which will normally result.—Dr. Eliot, in Harper's Bazaar.

The Hickory in Danger.

Entomologists declare the hickory to be in danger of extermination. There is, it seems, a bark beetle which is working widespread destruction. The bark beetle should be sought out and ruthlessly slain.

The hickory is an unaristocratic tree. It is gaunt, but sturdy. It looks like Uncle Sam. There is something essentially and typically American about the hickory. Its shaggy homeliness is a delight. The nut it bears is a delight, too. The tree is not like the "spreading chestnut," affluent in verdure and generous in shade. It is, rather, spare and utilitarian. And the hickory nut is far more admirable than the chestnut, and far more American. It is a hard nut to crack. But, after the shell has once been removed, it is found to be very desirable.

Then, too, there is the hickory bark for building fires with. In the winter, when a cheery fire in the woods is most worth striving for, the crackling of the hickory bark is the cheeriest thing imaginable, and its fragrance is beyond description delightful.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Cause for Disgust.

The christening party consisted of the proud father, the baby—a girl, the grandfather and the rest of the folks. The grandfather stood nearest the priest during the ceremony.

"What's the child's name?" asked the priest of the grandfather at the appropriate moment.

"I dunno," the grandfather replied. And heturned to the father and whispered hoarsely: "What its name?"

"Hazel," replied the father.

"What?" asked the grandfather.

"Hazel," repeated the father.

The grandfather threw up his hands in disgust.

"What d'ye think av that?" he asked the priest. "With a calendar av the saints full av gur-rl names—an' him namin' his after a nut!"—Saturday Evening Post.

NEGROES WERE TRIED BUT FELKER MUST PAY

Some important and interesting decisions were handed down by the court of appeals yesterday morning.

A case of more than usual interest was that of J. H. Felker v. the state. Mr. Felker, who has been a member of the legislature, gave a not for $100 in payment of police court fines for six negroes who had been caught gambling at Monroe, Ga., and were tried for disorderly conduct, with the understanding, it is said, that the state charge would not be pressed. Later the negroes were tried for gambling in the state court. Mr. Felker, who wanted the negroes to work on his place declined to pay the note, and judgment was rendered against him and he appealed. The court of appeals held that the defendant could not decline to pay the note, because the understanding about the prosecution was not carried out. The decision of the lower court was sustained.

Railroad is Responsible.

A railroad is responsible if a person is injured while walking in a switching yard of a railroad, commonly used as a roadway without any specific objection from the company, is what the court virtually held in the case of James Binion v. the Central Railway of Georgia. The case came from Savannah. It was thrown out of court on a demurrer by the railroad, and the court of appeals held that this was an error, as Binion, who is a youth, had action for damages.

It may be news to the people in the pine belt to know that turpentine and rosin or "gum," as the court calls it, is personal property and can be held in action for trover. The court of appeals so held in the case of D. S. Strickland v. J. F. Miller. Miller brought a bill in trover for the recovery of turpentine and rosin which Strickland was said to have taken from pine trees belonging to the plaintiff, in Brooks county, and won his case. Strickland appealed and has lost again.

Jury is Not the Judge.

It is not for a jury to pass upon the validity and reasonableness of a city law regulating the speed of autos, but a question of law for the court, so the court of civil appeals held in the case of the Columbus Railway company v. Waller. In that case the judge charged the jury to "weigh all the facts and say whether a city ordinance of Columbus fixing the auto speed limit was valid and reasonable." This was held to be in error, and the judgment of the lower court was reversed.

An interesting decision is that in the case of Clarence Jackson v. the state. Jackson is a minor and lives near Sparta. His father hired him out and when he refused to work was prosecuted for violating the "labor law contract," and convicted. He appealed, and the judgment of the lower court was reversed by the court of appeals, which held that no minor can be so convicted under such circumstances.

If a person attaches a letter box to a telephone pole and a live wire charges the box and gives such person a severe and dangerous shock, the company is liable. The court of appeals so held in the case of Mrs. Laura Cheshire v. the Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph company. Mrs. Cheshire was injured by a shock from a letter box in front of her home, between Atlanta and East Point. The company claimed that it was not liable for the accident, because the box was attached to one of its poles. Mrs. Cheshire was given a verdict for $2,700, and the judgment of the lower court was affirmed.

ACTION OF RAILROADS UPHELD BY COMMISSION

Washington, May 6.—Withdrawals by the railroads of commodity freight rates on ground iron ore from Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee points other than Chattanooga to ports on the north Atlantic coast was held by the interstate commerce commission today to be ustified, although the action will put the higher class rates into effect. In the same case the commission held that the proposed advance of about 8 per cent in the all-rail and rail and water rates on ground iron ore from Chattanooga to New York and Boston had not been justified and the lower rates will remain in effect.

IT'S FELONY IN OHIO TO "TOTE" A PISTOL

Columbus, Ohio, May 6.—"Pistol toting" was made a felony in Ohio today when Governor Cox approved the Williams bill. Police officers, employees of express companies and others, who guard large sums of money, are exempted.

Buy Diamonds Before The New Tariff Advances Prices

Under the old tariff no duty was levied on uncut or "rough" diamonds. Only 10 per cent duty was paid on cut or polished diamonds.

The democratic caucus has just recommended a 20 per cent duty on polished diamonds and 10 per cent on the rough. This new rate will no doubt become effective within the next two or three months.

In addition to this, the big diamond syndicate has raised prices to the cutters since January $15.00 to $30.00 per carat.

This means an advance in the retail market within the next four to six months ranging from $15.00 to $60.00 a carat—according to grades and sizes.

Buy a diamond now on attractive monthly payments and save the advance. Our booklet, "Facts About Diamonds," quotes lowest net prices and gives full particulars regarding our liberal plans.

TRUSTEES RECEIVE HAWKES HOME DEED FROM A. K. HAWKES

At a meeting of the trustees of the Harriet Hawkes Educational and Industrial home Monday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, in the office of Colonel Walter McElreath, A. K. Hawkes had transferred to the trustees the deed to the fifty-acre tract of land on Stewart avenue. The trustees some time back had fulfilled the original agreement with Mr. Hawkes, which was to raise a subscription of $16,000 by a given time with which to erect the first building.

This deed was accepted, and a committee consisting of G. H. Brandon, R. A. Hemphill, E. H. Peacock, Dr. C. W. Daniel, A. B. Cundy, Joseph A. McCord, Dr. C. B. Wilmer and J. J. Eagan was appointed for the purpose of maping out the future course of the work, and to consider the recent proposed co-operation of the county commissioners.

An expression of thanks was forwarded to Mr. Hawkes for the splendid gift of this valuable tract of land, estimated to be worth $25,000, and the public was thanked for its liberal response to the call on them for funds and subscriptions, and the press for its valuable help in bringing the plans and the needs of the institution before the people.

Movement Started by Peacock.

It will be remembered that this work was started by E. H. Peacock, who for eleven years labored among all classes and conditions of the city's needs, and has had much experience in all kinds of philanthropic and mission work, having had charge of this branch of the Tabernacle work for many years.

Knowing the great need of protecting Atlanta's young girls, and in order to be able to realize his dream of a great institution for that purpose, he went to Mr. Hawkes and explained to him his plans, asking for the gift of this property on which to build this institution, and making it a memorial to perpetuate the name of Mr. Hawkes' mother.

HER MARRIAGE STORY WAS NOT BELIEVED

Bath, Me., May 6.—The story of a secret marriage in New York, told by Edmine B. Speer, of Boston, failed to convince Probate Judge Lowell today that the woman was the widow of former Mayor Daniel Howard Spear, a millionaire ship builder of this city, and her petition for an allowance from the estate for herself and her child, was disallowed. She was unable tot produce a marriage certificate or other documentiary evidence in support of her claim.

The petitioner testified that she married Mr. Spear in New York, May 22, 1909, a month after the death of his first wife, the ceremony being performed by "a Mr. McAllister—an alderman or some other sort of a politician."

Spear died on December 24, 1911, his nearest relative being a sister. In the following Fabuary Mrs. Spear filed her claim. She swore that after she married the ship builder she was admitted to the Spear home as Miss Clinkard.

Macon, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Judge Hugh McKervey, the wit of East Macon, was the means this morning of saving the life of W. D. Hooks, a city fireman, and all through a joke.

Hooks called at the drug store where McKervey is manager and asked for some cocaine, declaring that he wanted to commit suicide. Judge McKervey fixed up some quinine tablets and stepping out into the middle of the store room Hooks swallowed what he thought to be the poison. Thinking death was only a matter of a few minutes, Hooks begged that Rev. R. B. Currie be summoned to pray for him. The minister arrived and was let into the secret by Judge McKervey. Then he set to work to convince the fireman that life was worth living after all.

Hooks, when told he had been saved, shook hands warmly with the judge, and declared that he would make no further attempt to harm himself.

Jones, "Jim, I love you, but here is the last of me," Bessie Langston, a young woman of Macon's restricted district this morning sent a bullet through her heart and died five minutes later.

James Jones is employed at the store of his brother, A. D. Jones, located on Fourth street. He had been rooming over the store and the Langston woman is said to have been occupying his room at different times and had recently been despondent because of ill health.

This morning he was standing in front of the store talking to two negro porters when the girl called to him that she was going to kill herself. A minute later a pistol shot rang, and when Jones and two negroes rushed upstairs they found the woman on the floor and her clothing on fire.

The coroner held an inquest and decided it was a case of suicide.

HORSERADISH ROOT COMES FREE OF DUTY

Washington, May 6.—With the cost of living constantly soaring, it may become cheaper to increase appetites of Americans, according to a decision of the customs court today. Over ruling the treasury department's pleading for a 25 per cent ad valorem duty on horse raddish used the country over as a condiment, the court decided that the roots should be admitted free of duty. The department contended that a horse raddish root was a vegetable, but the court officially named it a "vegetable substance."

Drawing a distinction between horse raddish and "moss and seaweeds," mentioned in the tariff act as vegetable substances entitled to free entry, the government suggested that moss and seaweeds could not be used as food. The court came back with the statement that moss and seaweeds frequently are eaten.

REPUBLICANS ATTACK EXEMPTION CLAUSE

Washington, May 6.—Debate in the senate on the paragraph in the sundry civil bill, exempting labor and farmers' organizations from prosecutions under the Sherman act, with funds carried in that bill, lasted for nearly two hours today. When the outlook for a vote seemed useless Chairman Martin, of the appropriations committee, asked that the measure be laid over.

Senators Hollis, Works, Walsh, Gronna, Lodge, Smith, of South Carolina, and Hughes, spoke on the paragraph. Senator Gallinger read what he declared was an extract from a speech delivered on the Boston common by William D. Haywood, suggesting the extermination of capital. The senator expressed the hope that some time there would be a "senate brave enough" to provide ways and means to have men of Haywood's character taken care of by the legal arm of the government.

DISCUSS CELEBRATION OF BATTLE OF ATLANTA

Fifty of Atlanta's prominent citizens gathered in the rooms of the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon and discussed the advisability of celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Atlanta in this city in 1914.

Wilmer Moore opened the meeting by stating that he thought that it would be most befitting if companies of the grand army of the republic would come to such a celebration, the first time since the civil war.

General A. J. West made a strong plea for the celebration, saying that the people of Atlanta did not fully appreciate the historical value of the city.

Mrs. William McCarthy, of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and Mrs. Dalton Mitchell made a strong plea for the celebration, saying that the U. D. C. would indorse the movement to the utmost.

President Wilmer Moore will appoint a committee of five within the next few days to look thoroughly into the matter and report on it.

The Day of Specialists

There recently appeared in an Atlanta paper a splendid editorial on the "Powers of Concentration." It told of the wonderful things that can be accomplished by sticking to one thing—to a finish; and you know it to be true—that if you start out to do a thing, backed by courage and determination, you'll get it done; and when you get it done' you'll be a specialist—at that one thing.

We've been sticking to one thing for fifty years; plugging along, studying and learning every point that would add to our efficiency as opticians. For fifty years we have been examining eyes and fitting glasses, and we are pretty sure we are able to properly handle the most difficult cases requiring the use of glasses. You get the direct benefit of all these years of experience. Come in and talk to us about your eyes.

THIS MUST CONVINCE YOU

The Health Teacher asks you how long will you continue to see your friends and neighbors being cured before you realize what a wonderful remedy the Quaker Extract must be? Now, here are a few names, with addresses, who have been relieved of untold misery and restored to a life of sunshine and happiness in a few days or weeks after using the Quaker Remedies:

The remarkable work was that of saving the life of little Annie Donaldson, an eight-year-old child, not larger than an ordinary child of five years. This child has been a constant worry to the parents, who reside at 7 Richards street, corner Tumlin street, this city. The child has had many attacks of fever, biliousness, weak, run-down conditions for the past four years. Her stomach would bloat; restless at night; screaming out in her sleep, foul breath, especially in the morning; dizziness; headache, tired, languid feeling, and the strange part was, she most always had a ravenous appetite; could eat a big meal and in one hour was hungry again. The mother called at Coursey & Munn's drug store, procured one bottle of Quaker Extract, and the fourth day the child expelled a monster 41-foot tapeworm, head and all complete, squirming and alive, and today is the picture of health.

Another report: Mr. Charles D. Owens, 20 years of age, who resides at East Point, with his parents, has been a sufferer with stomach trouble for the past five years. Has tried almost every treatment he ever heard of without even getting relief. He was advised by friends to try the Quaker Remedies. He did, and after taking just six doses, expelled a monster and all complete and alive. Now these worms are always expelled by the Quaker Extract, if taken.

Here is another report: Mr. J. S. Calicutt, of 55 Wyman street, who has been a sufferer with stomach trouble for years. His stomach would bloat and cause him much distress after eating moderately. Gas would arise, cause palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, dizziness, kidneys bad, bowels irregular. For weeks at a time he was unable to work. He called at Coursey & Munn's drug store, procured three bottles of Quaker Extract and, after taking it five days, reports he is going back to work, and is feeling better than he has in years.

Now, my friends, the Health Teacher wants every sufferer with rheumatism, catarrh, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder or blood trouble to call at once. Now, hundreds, yes, millions, of people, today who suffer with indigestion, dyspepsia, fits, catarrh of the stomach or chronic constipation, that is the cause and how, if you don't "remove the cause?" Quaker Extract is a cure for catarrh, no matter if it is in the head, the stomach, kidneys, bladder or any part of the inner system. It's a blood germ disease, and there is only one way it can be cured, and that is a systematic treatment. Call at Coursey & Munn's drug store, 29 Marietta street, for Quaker Extract, 3 for $2.50, or 6 for $5.00. Oil of Balm 25c, or 5 for $1.00. We prepay all express charges on all orders of $3.00 or over. (adv.)

NO REASON FOR DOUBT

Tecumseh, Okla.—In a letter from this town, Mrs. Elisa Epperson, says: "I do believe, that if it hadn't been for Cardui, the woman's tonic, I wouldn't have been living today.

I am so glad that I began taking Cardui, when I did. Before I began using it, I was in bad health and suffered considerable pain in head, shoulders, back, side, limbs and lower part of my body.

Cardui helped me more than anythink I ever did take, and I am in better health since taking it, than I have been in four (4) years.

I shall never be without Cardui, the woman's tonic, in my home, and will always recommend it to other ladies."

Can you doubt the merit of Cardui after reading the above letter? This is only one of many that we receive each year. Such testimony, from earnest women, surely proves the great value of this tonic medicine, for the ailments peculiar to their sex.

Cardui acts on the weakened womanly organs. It helps to refresh the worhout nerves, and is the ideal medicine for young and old.

As a tonic for women, it has brought remarkable results.

As a remedy for women's ills, its friends say it has no equal.

TAG DAY AN ANNIVERSARY TO MAKE THE WORLD AKIN

Tag day makes all the world akin once a year, and the annual relationship is to be established Monday. The little children who are the wards of the sheltering arms association are the welding influence. No other could develop a sentiment so nearly universal. They need no arguments to back their little silent appeal once a year. Atlanta people know they are here, know they must be cared for, and know the work of the Atlanta women who, through the Sheltering Arms, are giving these little folks a chance to become some day useful, happy men and women.

What the Association Does.

The Sheltering Arms, through its nurses and kindergartens, takes care of the bodies and minds of their little souls, giving them a guardianship their mothers cannot provide, the mission of the association being directed primarily to children whose mothers must work away from home.

With Atlanta's rapid growth, the number of little folks wro must come under this philanthrophy is constantly on the increase, and so each year there is bigger need for the generous loosing of Atlanta's purse strings.

In all the office buildings, hotels and stores there will be committees representing the association Monday who will accept the annual donation of Atlanta's citizenship towards this universal call; and this year, as it has always been in the past, is may be anticipated as a beautiful feature of the day, that the offerings will be of the city's free will, and of her glad generosity.

FIELD DAY EXHIBITION TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY

The annual field day exhibition of the children of the grammar schools will be held next Saturday at Ponce de Leon and the program will be unusually interesting and entertaining. Dr. Theo Toepel, the physical director of the public schools, has arranged the features and he has spared neither time nor trouble to make them pleasing to both the children and the spectators.

The most attractive feature of the program will be the flag drill, in which 2,700 small children will carry flags and go through military evolutions. The procession will be headed by Camp Walker Confederate Veterans, who will carry an old confederate flag. During the march the children will sing "Dixie" and the "Star Spangled Banner."

Between 9 and 12 o'clock there will be competitive work in athletics by the boys and girls. This will be followed by running races between the boys and girls in the second, third and fourth grades. Teh distance will be 40, 50 and 60 yards.

At 3:30 o'clock there will be drilling by the children of the fourth grade and about 1,500 boys and girls will take part.

There will be a number of other interesting features on the program. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Today's Beauty Recipes

By Mme. D'Mille.

"To correct faulty complexion, sallowness, pimples or blotches, dissolve an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel, and cover the face, neck and arms with this solution every morning. It takes the place of powder and makes the skin soft, lovely, smooth and satiny.

"Dull, dead and falling hair—the forerunners of baldness—are caused by a parasite. To keep the hair healthy and beautiful you must kill the parasite that destroys the hair. Mother's Shampoo does this. It leaves the scalp fresh, clean and wholesome and makes the hair fluffy and fine. A supply for many months costs only 25 cents at your druggist's.

"Persons troubled with superfluous hair on face or forearms can quickly and safely remove the humiliating growth with delatone. Make a paste by mixing powdered delatone with water; cover the hairs for two or three minutes; then remove, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone.

"Spring colds are prevalent. The world never saw the equal of Mother's Salve as a remedy for coughs, colds in the head or chest, catarrh and sore throat. It is easy to use and quick to act. Mother's Salve is sold in prepared form in every neighborhood."

RESPITE FOR NEGRO PROVOKES MOB SPIRIT

Daingerfield, Texas, May 6.—Two negro churches and a negro residence were burned at Omaha, Texas, ten miles north of here, last night when it became known that Governor O. B. Colquitt had granted a thirty-day respite to Gus Finley, a negro, sentenced to be hanged here today for the murder of Constable George Tucker, of Omaha. Feeling was intense and fearing mob violence, he was spirited away today by officers to a jail in another co munity.

SITUATION SERIOUS IN BERRIEN COUNTY

Commissioner Mercer Declares Many Citizens Are Openly Defying Law.

"That I have not overestimated the situation in Berrien county in regard to the unlawful fishing in the big pond," stated Jame and Fish Commissioner Jesse Mercer yesterday, "is borne out by a letter which I received this morning from one of my game wardens. He sent me his commission and badge, and says that he cannot hope to live in that section of Georgia and hold the office.

"He begins his letter by saying: 'Things are too hot for me down here.' I do not care to give out his name, because I hope to prevail upon him to reconsider his action, as he is one of the best wardens I have. There are in Berrien county about fifteen wardens, and even that number has failed to cope with the serious situation. It is simply another Reelfoot matter, and I do not exaggerate when I say so."

The number of the badge which was returned to the commissioner is 412.

In Defiance of the Law.

The grave fishery situation, which was given in an exclusive story in Tuesday's Constitution, has caused the commissioner no little anxiety. He does not hesitate to say that many people in Berrien and Lowndes counties are openly defiant of the law, and persist in fishing in the big mill pond, despite every effort that has been made to force them to obey the law. There are those who claim they have the right to fish because they have a land right, and there are others whose claim is what they call "God-given," because the fish are there and are plentiful, and they are needed for food.

The court of appeals handed down a decision Tuesday morning bearing on the very point that is being raised at Milltown. The court held that it is a clear misdemeanor for any person to fish on the land of another without the land owner's permission, and that this law applies, no matter what the character of the water may be. The case is that of F. W. Robinson v. the state, and came from Thomasville.

Commissioner Mercer says he will visit Milltown in a few days and then he intends to enforce the law.

No Word From Nashville.

Although every effort has been made to secure a statement from the officials at Nashville, not a word has been heard. Because of charges made by Warden M. F. Boisclair, who was ordered out of Berrien county after he had been sent there by Commissioner Mercer to make arrests, it was desired to hear the other side of the story from the Nashville mayor and citizens.

How Arrests Were Made.

Nashville, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Game Warden Boisclair went to Milltown and stated that he was off on a vacation, it is declared here. It is said that he went fishing with a party of men in Banks' pond. He then got names of those who had been fishing in the pond and had them arrested.

About twenty-nine were arrested, and it is said that some of them owned part of the land in the pond. In the preliminary trial at Milltown, Boisclair had the cases dismissed. The defendants had employed attorneys and were ready to fight the case. When Warden Boisclair entered the court room at Milltown, Mayor Pafford saw a revolver in his pocket and had him arrested. The charges against him are carrying a pistol without license, carrying concealed weapons and carrying a pistol into a court room.

The defendants arrested for illegal fishing are among the best citizens of Berrien county. They claim that they had permission to fish in the pond. Considerable feeling has been caused by the matter.

When asked if it was true that Warden Boisclair went fishing as claimed in the story from Nashville, Commissioner Mercer said:

"Mr. Boisclair told me that he did concealed his identity at Milltown, and that he went fishing with a permit, in order to ascertain who was doing the illegal fishing. He has already made a statement about the pistol, as published in The Constitution Tuesday. He said he withdrew the warrants at Milltown because he thought there would be no fair trial, and again swore them out at Nashville. He says that his pistol was not discovered until after he had been abused and placed under arrest without a warrant and without cause.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CHILDREN TO GIVE GREAT CONCERT

The mammoth concert to be given at the Auditorium Friday night by a great chorus of public school children, will be a beautiful occasion, holding its interest for everybody in Atlanta who has at heart the welfare and progress of the city's schools.

The pupils of the eighth grade in all the thirty-seven white schools will take part in one chorus, making an aggregation of 800 voices, and the seventh grades from eight schools—Grew, Edgewood, Calhoun, Williams, Lee, Formwalt, Peeples and Pryor—will participate in a smaller chorus.

Program of Folk Songs.

The program will be made up entirely of folk songs, the big chorus to sing songs of England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales and America, and the seventh grades to render airs of Scotland, France, Austria and Italy.

Miss Wate Harralson, director of music in the schools, has charge of the concert, and through the courtesy of the Music Festival association, the accompaniments on the Auditorium organ will be played by Dr. Percy J. Starnes.

Gala Decorations.

Representatives of 7th District Lodges Convene Today.

Rome, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—The Seventh Congressional District Masonic convention will be called to order here Wednesday morning by Worshipful Master Max Meyerhardt, with representatives from 72 lodges in attendance. It is estimated that between 300 and 400 delegates will be present. The visitors will be welcomed by Mayor Ben C. Yancey, and in the afternoon the first degree will be conferred by the Oostanaula Lodge, No. 113.

Wednesday night, ladies' night, will be observed at the opera house, with two choruses of Rome ladies and Shorter college students. There will be addresses by Grand Master R. L. Colding, Deputy Grand Master N. H. Ballard, Past Grand Masters Jeffries and Taylor, Judge Moses Wright and J. L. McCartney. Vocal solos, recitations, violin-cello solos and orchestral music will be added to a program of brilliance.

Thursday morning there will be religious services featured by "sermonettes" from practically every minister in Rome. Thursday afternoon the second degree will be conferred by convention officers.

Thursday night will occur the great Masonic rally which will be attended by hundreds of Masons from the seventh district and followed by a sumptuous banquet. There will be music, addresses and third degree work by the Cherokee Lodge No. 66.

Won't Bury Slain Negro.

Rome, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Mayor R. B. Reeves, of Cave Spring, at the instance of Coroner John W. Miller, is investigating the alleged interference by negroes of that city with an order which the official issued to other negroes yesterday to bury the body of Richard Branch, colored, who was shot and killed by Marshal Paris of that city, while resisting arrest. After the inquest adjourned, the coroner paid the negroes to bury the body, but later they returned the money, stating that members of their race had threatened their lives if they had anything to do with it.

The attitude of the negroes is believed to be the result of the strained relations between the races growing out of the tragedy. Mr. Paris was exonerated by the jury, after he had exhibited several wounds made by Branch, who attacked him with a knife before he was killed by the officer.

Asks Better Schedule.

Rome, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Secretary L. S. Daniel, of the M. & M. association will appear tomorrow before the railroad commission in an effort to have the schedules between Rome and Carrollton revised so that a person may make the trip in a day's time. Various efforts to obtain relief by the merchants in recent years have resulted in failure, but Mr. Daniel believes that the present one with solid backing of the business people of both cities will be successful.

PORTUGUESE REBELS ARE SENT TO AZORES

Lisbon, May 6—The Portuguese government has dispatched political prisoners arrested for complicity in the last attempt to overthrow the republic on April 27 to the Azores for trial and punishment.

About 200 of the prisoners were marched at dawn yesterday on board the steamer Cabo Verde, which sailed at once bound for Terceira Island, where accused are to be court martialed in the fortress of Angra, capital of the island.

The Portuguese premier was questioned last night in parliament on the subejct and replied that the prisoners had been sent to Angra under the provisions of the law giving the government the right to choose any place for the trial of political prisoners.

Families of the accused are terrified by the step taken by the government and express fear as to what may happen to their relatives when they arrive on the remote island and are placed in the secluded stronghold.

The riots on April 27, in which the prisoners were implicated, were started by the ultra republicans. They gathered in groups before the barracks of Lisbon, fired revolvers, exploded small bombs and cheered for "the radical republic."

TO MAKE TWO STATES OUT OF CALIFORNIA

Sacramento, Cal., May 6.—A proposal to divide the state of California at Tehachapi Pass, naming the northern half "California," and the remainder "South Cafeteria," is made in a resolution introduced in the senate today by Senator Sanford, of Ukiah, democratic national committeeman.

The resolution sets forth that California is inadequately represented in the United States senate, as compared with New England, and that some means should be provided for giving the area additional senators.

The resolution provides for submitting the division to popular vote at the next general election. It was referred to the committee on federal relations.

Senator Sanford explained that the name "South Cafeteria" was selected for the southern division of the state "out of deference to Los Angeles, the home of the Cafeteria."

DISEASE PREVENTION DOCTORS' FIRST DUTY

At the exercises at the Grand last night at which fifteen young men received their diplomas in medicine from the Southern College of Medicine and Surgery, Colonel Edgar Watkins, of Watkins & Latimer, made the principal address of the evening, stressing the point of the sacred duty that a man takes upon himself when he enters the practice of medicine.

"You are priests of men's bodies and the bodies are the temples of the soul," said the speaker in impressing upon the young graduates the importance of their work.

During the course of his speech he also called upon the men before him to become discoverers in the world of medicine and not to be willing always to follow blindly what they had been taught, but branch out and learn something new for the good of mankind as has been done by the great physicians of history.

"The mere treatment of disease is not all of the duties you assume by becoming physicians," said Colonel Watkins. "The prevention of disease is your most important obligation. While the science of medicine has progressed enormously within the last generation, there are yet unexplored fields. The roll of these benefactors of mankind who have made discoveries in preventing and healing diseases is a long one.

"It is not yet settled whether Dr. F. F. Friedmann will be on that list, but it is as certain as anything in the future that if his name is not put on there for discovering a cure for tuberculosis, that some one else will win the honor."

Colonel Watkins caused a general laugh when he began his speech by stating that he was not going to try to give any advice as is usually done at graduating exercises. He stated that he did not think a lawyer should give advice and the delicate way in which he stressed the word "give" brought a general laugh.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Dr. S. H. Belk, of Park Street Methodist church, and after the formal report of the dean, Dr. W. B. Lingo, the diplomas were delivered by Dr. Henry Bak.

FIGHT ON IN JERSEY OVER JURY REFORM

Trenton, N. J., May 6.—Three bills providing for jury reform were introduced in the senate when the New Jersey legislature convened today in special session to consider that problem, a constitutional convention and small boards of freeholders. Governor Fielder's message urged affirmative action on all three subjects.

Of the three bills on jury reform, that introduced by Senator Davis and providing for selection of jurors by the sheriff acting in conjunction with a chancellor-named commissioner, is said to have President Wilson's approval. A republican caucus adopted a pledge to stand by Senator Read's bill, virtually the same as that adopted last session by the senate and rejected by the house.

Adjournment was taken by both houses until Friday when the bills introduced today will come up for consideration.

Friends of President Wilson are confident that the house will pass the chancellor-sheriff bill, which the president has agreed to as a compromise, while Assembleyman Martin and former State Chairman James R. Nugent declare the house will agree to no bill that does not contain a referendum.

No matter what the house may do there can be no jury legislation unless the republican senators break their agreement unanimously arrived at in conference today to support the Read bill.

In the three games played with the Gulls the Crackers have made twenty-nine hits, yet they have lost all the games, proving it is the pitchers who are to blame.

GULLS SEEM TO HAVE OUR ANGORA

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

Are Enthused.

BROOKLYN fans are enthused over the showing of Dahlen's Dodgers in the pennant race thus far. And they have just cause to be. The City of Churches seems to be represented by the best ball club it has had in years. Statibility is all that is lacking. Rucker, Ragon, Allen and Stack is a mighty useful quartet of pitchers, while Fisher, Stengel, Daubert, Wheat and Cutshaw, not to mention old-reliable John Hummell, are mighty good hitters. If steadiness is secured, Brooklyn figures at the present writing as the "dark horse" of the older major.

Improving Rapidly.

HARRY BAILEY is improving rapidly. He stated yesterday that if the injured prop keeps mending as fast as it has been doing of late, that he will probably join the team in Montgomery Thursday, and play in left field once more. Bailey's return to the team will be welcomed by the manager, players and fans alike.

Must Improve.

MUSSER and Bausewein must improve or pass on. They appear to have plenty of stuff, but of late have been unable to find the plates. If a pitcher cannot get his staff over he might as well not have anything but the proverbial glove and a prayers.

The Big Lemon.

LEFTY RUSSELL, for whom Connie Mack dished out 12,000 good, round simoleans, is through. He has been given his unconditional release by the Baltimore Internationals. Further evidence of our contention, that no matter how much stuff a pitcher may have, if he cannot get it over the plate—good night.

Looks Likely.

PHILADELPHIA may be the scene of the world's series this fall. The Athletics and the Phillies are leading both pennant chases and going at an excellent clip. Good batting and team work is the answer in the former's standing. Good pitching solves the latter. With an even break of luck, these two teams are going to be hard to head throughout the entire campaign. Washington and Cleveland in the American, and Chicago, Pittsburg and New York in the National, will be their most formidable contenders.

Is Not Expected.

NO ONE expects the Cracker hurlers to pitch shut-out ball, but it is reasonable to expect them to keep the opposition from making from nine to eleven hits average a game, and having sufficient control to keep from walking from six to ten men a game. Other local critics to the contrary, a howl is due when they pitch this kind of baseball. Said howl is not in the least bit premature either. When a ball club can go out and make an average of from 4 to 6 runs, and 9 to 11 hits per game, and then have the pitchers throw it away, its time to yell and yell loudly.

A Disappointment.

BUCK WEAVER'S showing to date has been a disappointment. But Buck is a better pitcher than he has shown thus far. A severe cold in his pitching arm, which settled there after he won the opening game in Chattanooga, whic hhe pitched i nthe rain, is to be blamed. If he can work out this kink he'll show and be one of the team's leading pitchers.

Will Do.

JIM BRADY and Gil Price will do. Brady has been pitching steady ball all season. Price has, too, although he took a fine lacing Monday in Mobile. But the Gulls seemed to be set to hit any kind of pitching that day, and would have slammed any man the Crackers had. However, if Price had been sent in at the start of the game, with a three-run lead, we doubt the Gulls' ability to overtake him. When they were ahead Price was shot in. Finn's tribe had too much confidence to be headed then.

NEW YORK YACHT CLUB REPLIES TO LIPTON

London, May 6.—The Royal Ulster Yacht club today received a letter from the New York Yacht club, replying to Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge to a race with Shamrock IV. for the America's cup, in which it is stated that the New York Yacht club since 1902 has made radical changes in its system of measurement and time allowance, and that 'important changes also have been made in the racing rules. The letter continues:

"Your reference, therefore to the regulations of the last contest as governing the present challenge, leaves uncertain whether you mean a challenge for a match sailed with or without time allowance, and, if with time allowance, whether you propose it to be sailed under the New York Yacht club system of measurement and time allowance and under the racing regulations of 1902, which governed the last contest, but which are not in force at the present time."

The letter concludes by asking for information on these points, "as it is essential that our committee be informed of the specific nature of the match proposed before it, and take any action on the challenge."

London, May 6.—Sir Thomas Lipton said tonight he had not yet received a copy of the letter which had been addressed by the New York Yacht club to the Royal Ulster club, and on the spur of the moment was unable to answer the questions propounded. But he added:

"The New York Yacht club's committee, which has the matter in charge, is composed of thorough sportmen, and as anxious for a race as I am, and I haven't the slightest doubt that the points they raise will be settled to our mutual satisfaction and that the race will take place."

Three Straight for Gulls; Hogg Wins Sixth Straight; Usual Home Run Resulted

Today's Batteries.

Mobile, Ala., May 6.—(Special.)—W. Robertson and Schmidt, for Mobile, and Brady and Graham for Atlanta, will be the batteries in the final game of the series between Mobile and Atlanta Wednesday.

Mobile, Ala., May 6.—(Special.)—Mobile made it three straights from the Crackers this afternoon, and scored their eighth straight win in as many days.

Mobile 6, Atlanta 3.

Incidentally at was the sixth straight win of the season for Bradley Hogg, the big right hander of the Gulls, and former star twirler on the Mercer university team.

Bausewein was sent back at the Gulls again today. He was easy picking in the first two innings. Thereafter, he settled down and pitched steady ball.

Hogg Was Steady.

Hogg allowed ten hits, but he kept them well scattered. The majority of them came after two men were out, when Hogg always tightened up and prevented scores, with the exception of the seventh and eighth innings, but a flicker in his support was mainly responsible.

The work of Billy Campbell, the Mobile pitcher, who was sent to right field by Manager Finn, when Robertson was sent to first base, owing to the illness of Gene Paulet, was the feature.

His work on near Texas leaguers was remarkable. His quick recovery of hard hit balls prevented the Cracker runners from making more than one base on their hits. His great throw on Welchonce's two-bagger in the eighth, kept it from being a three-base drive.

How They Scored.

Bausewein walked Stock, the first man to face him, and Starr got a life on Bisland's error. O'Dell and Jacobson were retired, but Clark hit a timely double to center, scoring both men.

In the second, Campbell opened by slamming one down the right field foul line for two bases, and scored on Schmidt's single over second. Hogg walked and Stock beat out an infield hit, filling the bases. Starr forced Schmidt at the plate, but O'Dell singled, scoring Hogg.

After two men were out in the Crackers' half of the seventh, Graham and Bausewein singled. Hogg uncorked a wild pitch and Graham scored. Long hit to third and O'Dell threw badly to first, Bausewein scoring.

Long dropped Jacobson's fly in the seventh, and he counted when Robertson hit to right for three bases.

Welchonce's Doubled.

Schmidt, the first man up in Mobile's half of the eighth, hit the first ball pitched him over the fence for a home run.

In the ninth the Crackers looked dangerous. With one gone, Long and Agler got hits, but Long was thrown out going to third base on Agler's infield hit; Robertson getting him by a fine throw.

Vols 2, Turtles 1.

Memphis, Tenn., May 6.—Bunched hits in the first inning gave Nashville the long end of a 2 to 1 score over Memphis today. Schwartz's single brought in both the runs.

Four of the six Nashville hits came in the first inning. After that Harrell was master, but Beck, pitching for the visitors, was steady throughout, and Merritt was the only player of the home team to score. Seabough's sacrifice made this run possible. Ward, of Memphis, three times up, hit safely each time.

Pels-Barons, Rain.

New Orleans, May 6.—New Orleans and Birmingham played a half inning today, when rain then made postponement of the game necessary. Birmingham had scored one run. New Orleans released Shortstop Knaupp to Montgomery. The batteries scheduled for today were Hargrove and Mayor for Birmingham; McIntyre and Yantz for New Orleans.

BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY MARIST

The Boys' High school and Marist college teams of the local Prep School league will play at the latter's grounds this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

UMPIRE OWENS GIVEN RELEASE BY LYNCH

New York, May 6.—President Lynch, of the National league, announced tonight that he had dismissed Umpire C. B. Owens for violation of the rules of deportment. The violation alleged consisted in entering a gambling resort. In making the announcement, President Lynch said:

"Umpires in the National league by their deportment on and off the field are supposed to add dignity to their positions as representatives of the league. They are backed up by the president in the discharge of their duties and in order to gain and hold the respect of the players the press and the public, it is most essential that their conduct at all times be above reproach.

"Mr. Owens, by his action has forfeited the right to the protection afforded him by the president of the league and for the good of the game he is discharged."

KNISELY REPORTS TO BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala., May 6.—Peter Kniseley, centerfielder and hard hitter, recently purchased from the Chicago Nationals, reported today in Birmingham for duty on the Birmingham baseball club and will probably join the team when it leaves New Orleans. Kniseley is in good physical condition. He announces that McDonald, the third baseman also purchased from Chicago, will report here in a few days. Birmingham is said to have paid $5,400 for the two players.

Peacock Tennis.

With the exception of one match the tennis tournament among the students of Peacock-Fleet has now narrowed down to the finals which, the weather permitting, will be played off this afternoon.

In the singles Roff Sims drew a berth in the finals by defeating Lewis Sams yesterday by the close score of 6-4, 2-6, 9-7. His opponent for the school championship will be the winner of the match between Black and Beall, which will start today's program.

In the doubles Sims and Black took a place in the finals by defeating Knox and Hunnicutt, 6-1, 6-2. By defeating Howard and Scott, Orme C. and Hopkins will be their foes.

FOOTBALL STAR DALEY REINSTATED IN ARMY

Washington, May 6.—Charles D. Daly, the former Harvard and West Point football star, who quit the United States army to enter private life, was reinstated as a second lieutenant tonight by executive approval of his nomination by the senate.

An attempt to have President Wilson notified at once of confirmations made at today's executive session was made by the democrats. Senator Smoot objected and cited the usual procedure of waiting two days before such notifications was given to the white house. Lack of a quoerum prevented a vote on the question. A large number of postmasters were approved.

The only vote taken was on the confirmation of J. L. Baity as auditor of the war department. Baity was secretary to Senator Reed, of Missuri, and republicans opposed his confirmation, because they claimed the incumbent was better qualified to hold the position.

Awarding of Williams To Pelicans Riles Griff

Boston, Mass., May 6.—(Special.)—Manager Griffith has another grievance now against Ban Johnson's method of doing business. After learning from the head of the league that young Rebel Williams was his own property and that he could do with him as he wished he sent him to Atlanta only to discover from the archon of the American league that now young Williams is the property of the New Orleans club and that means a short jump to Cleveland, which club really owns the Pelican franchise in the Southern league.

Under the new agreement, which went into force this spring, all drafted players may be drafted again by minor league clubs. Portland, Ore., won the services of Rebel Williams but agreed to waive claim on him. Ban Johnson then informed Griffith that the player was the sole property of the Washington club. Nothing was said of any further claims to the youngster's services. As soon as Williams appeared with the Atlanta club last week, New Orleans complained to Secretary Farrell, of the minor league association, saying that a claim had been entered for Williams.

Ban Johnson had known nothing of this claim evidently, for he has now informed Manager Griffith that Williams is the property of the New Orleans club under the rules of the new agreement between the big lagues and the smaller circuits.

"This is slipshod business," said Manager Griffith today. "In the first place, I should have been informed officially of the claim made by New Orleans when Portland won in the back draft for the players. Then, too, I should not have been told by the head of this league that I could do as I wished with the player. As it is, I have now lost all claim to Williams, for it is impossible under the new agreement to take back waivers on a drafted player. I think the lad will become a star in the big show some day, but Cleveland will now reap the benefit of his work, as New Orleans works in very close connection with the Cleveland club."

EMPIRE STATE LEAGUE

Waycross 5, Brunswick 4.

Waycross, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Waycross took an exciting game today from Brunswick in a ninth inning rally, in which both teams figured prominently—score 5 to 4. After having been held scoreless for eight innings, Brunswick scored four runs in the ninth, a lead of one over Waycross. Manager Wahoo got into the game and started a rally that gave Waycross two runs. With better support Walker would have made a strong showing for the visitors, but their eight errors were all costly. Herring held Brunswick down to three hits until the ninth and fanned nine.

Thomasville, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Thomasville took the second game of the series this afternoon by the score of 5 to 3. Sellers held the hard hitting team of Dudley to no scores up to the ninth, when a two-base hit, a base on balls put two on with two down. Roth, yesterday's pitcher, went into hit for Heigue and rapped out a safety, scoring two runs. This game at a time when Valdosta was one run ahead and caused wild enthusiasm for the southpaw. Elliot, for Thomasville, pitched splendid ball, but was wild at times. Valdosta got six hits to Thomasville's eleven. Dudley went to bat four times and hit out two two-base hits and two singles. Valdosta's runs were all scored on errors by the locals.

Gillespie, for Cordele, pitched fur innings this afternon, when he was relieved by Corbett. Third Baseman Bowen for Americus, made a running catch at left field fence, which won him applause. The game this afternoon was protested by Manager Weber, of the Americus team, upon the grounds that the ball went into players' bench, the umpire allowing runner on third base to score, after having been allowed on base on a wild throw.

ANOTHER TAKEN BY RED AND BLACK

Washington and Lee Given 14 to 1 Beating—Morris Pitches Well—Virginians Field Raggedly.

Athens, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Georgia continued her winning streak today by defeating Washington and Lee by the score of 14 to 1. The game was a replica of Monday's, the Georgians clouting the pill with regularity while the visitors played a listless game.

Brower, who was on the mound for the visitors, received much punishment and was poorly supported. Morris allowed the visitors but four hits, no two coming in the same inning.

Several times Washington and Lee had men on the paths, but Morris was steady and held them safely. Ginn and Erwin made beautiful shoestring catches in the outer gardens. Bowden continued his hitting streak by lacing out three safe ones, one for two bags.

THORPE'S TROPHIES GIVEN TO NEXT MEN

The Olympic Games Committee Takes Action in Meeting at Geneva, Switzerland.

Geneva, Switzerland, May 6.—The prices won at the Olympic games at Stockholm by James Thorpe, the Carlisle Indian athlete, will be forwarded to the men who finished second in the event. The international committee of the Olympic games so decided today on motion of the American delegates.

The Thorpe case came up in a private session of the committee. Thorpe, who, after the games at Stockholm, confessed to professionalism, was the winner of the much-coveted trophies, the Viking ship offered by the emperor of Russia to the winner of the Decathlon, and the bronze bust of the king of Sweden, offered by the king to the winner of the Pentathlon, both all around competitions.

These trophies will now go to H. Weislander, of Sweden, and F. R. Ble, of Norway, respectively.

The committee unanimously adopted the British proposal to send congratulations to the Amateur Athletic union for the sportsmanlike manner in which the American organization had handled the case. All the delegates regret the Thorpe affair, but praise the Americans for their promptitude in making amends.

Sixty delegates attended the regular session of the international committee, this being the fifteenth annual meeting. Baron de Coubertin, the president, acted as chairman and presented a gold medal to Professor De Felice, rector of Lausanne university. He is the third recipient of this medal, the others being Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, and the king of Sweden.

Cunningham Analyzes Team That Plays Jackets Friday; Hutchens Is Rated Highly

EDITOR'S NOTE—This article is written exclusively for The Constitution by the coach of the University of Georgia team and should be of much interest, with the Tech games but two days away.

Athens, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—The baseball season of 1913 has been very successful for the Red and Black in point of games won.

Now there remains only the Tech games, which in point of interest means everything to Georgia, as we would rather lose every game on our schedule than lose the Tech series, and as this feeling is reciprocated by our opponents you can always expect a struggle of classic proportion when these teams clash.

To pick the winner would simply mean the other team takes the series, no matter what team seems to have the edge you can count on that edge meaning nothing in a series of four games.

So this point will be left in abeyance until after May 17 and at present I will say a few words about the Georgia team.

Early Reports True.

The report that was sent out from Athens early in the season that Georgia had poor prospects was true.

The two Thompsons, Brannen, Twitty, Beddingfield and Wilder were gone and Bowden's arm had gone back on him. So we needed an entire new battery, three positions in the infield needed attention and one outfield position was open.

Hutchins, only an average first baseman, was sent behind the bat, his natural position, and he has developed into the greatest college catcher in the south, bar none. I attribute a large part of our pitchers' success to his splendid handling. He is an all-time, all-southern catcher.

Good Pitchers.

Corley, Morris and Hitchcock form our pitching staff. Hitchcock will not reach the point of maximum efficiency this year, but I expect great things of him in the future.

Morris has had wonderful success this year. He has been our most successful pitcher and at no time has he been forced to exert himself, six hits being the most any team has been able to gather from his delivery. As this is his last year in college, he will likely go into professional ball this summer.

Corley is a wonder. From a mediocre campus pitcher he has developed into one of the greatest college pitchers in the south. He stands well over 6 feet and weighs around 190 pounds, and with his terrific speed he strikes fear into most opposing batters.

The Infield.

Henderson has capably filled the position of first base. At the fielding game he has a fine average and as a batter an average around .370 shows his ability.

Harrison is the first prep school star I have ever seen become a star his first year in college. He showed the benefit of splendid coaching received from that able coach, Joe Bean, and from the first he was assured of a berth on Georgia's team. He is a great ball player and as a batter he has no equal in college ball. He hits to all fields equally well and when George lands on the ball the fielders generally have a chase.

Clements filled in at shortstop and now the people of Athens are trying to figure if Georgia ever had a shortstop in his class. He also is a good hitter with an average of .342 for the entire season.

Carrington played the best game of his career at third base until the question of his eligibility was raised, and pending an investigation as to whether he had played out of his county, his place has been acceptably filled by Holden, the captain of the scrub team. Carrington played for three years on the scrub team and only last year did he make the team.

Had it not been for Holland, Tech's peerless third baseman, he would have been awarded all-southern honors. This year he was sure of the place and it is a great pity he should be thrown out on a mere technical invasion of the rules, when he has only four more games to play.

The Outfield.

Ginn is playing left field, where his work has been the great feature of Georgia play. He is Georgia's leading hitter, base-stealer and run-getter. To see him play you marvel at his being so much like Ty Cobb. Possibly it is because he comes from Royston and has profited from advice received from Cobb.

McWhorter is in his old stand, the same hitter, fielder and base-stealer as of old with three years all-southern record behind him, he is at his best as the captain of Georgia's team.

Erwin has been moved from the infield, where he played as substitute, and placed in right field. He rounds out a pretty outfield and is playing a splendid game. He is hitting around .300 and getting better every day. I count on him to be one of our most dependable men in the Tech games.

While Bowden has been troubled all season with a sore arm, he has in every other respect played his best game. He has a contract from a major league team which awaits his signature the day he finishes college. He will make good his first year out. As a hitter he shines and even playing irregularly he has an average of .370.

Strong Hitters.

I can hardly understand and do not attempt to explain the hitting proclivities of our team. They have secured 222 hits in the short schedule played, which is about twelve hits to the game.

Only one man on the team is hitting less than .300, and his average of .272 is not bad. Sometimes I think it is that the pitchers are below the class of southern college twirlers, but that can hardly be the case.

Ezell is a good pitcher, but they gathered 16 safe hits off his delivery. Pratt gave up 19 hits in the Alabama game here; the next day he shut out Mercer to a no-hit game and I see that he has now signed with a National league team.

On our western trip we met some good pitchers, especially good was Spencer, of Michigan A. & M., who had defeated Michigan two games, yet Georgia gathered 14 safe hits off his delivery. Maybe they are hitting above their true form and maybe not. Anyhow, the Tech games will tell.

I am sorry Holliday has been ruled out of the game. He was a splendid college player and it is a shame that his college baseball career is ruined by a mere indiscretion. If that boy is a professional then every player in the S. I. A. A. needs investigating.

We do not under-estimate our opponents and Georgia will not enter the series overconfident. We expect, or rather, hope to win, so does Tech.

Newnan, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Newnan took LaGrange into camp again today, winning by the score of 8 to 4. he game was featured by the heavy hitting of the Newnan team in the pinches, and the steady pitching of Hawkins for the locals. Newkirk first up for LaGrange, clouted the first pitched ball for a homer, but after this Hawkins settled down and retired the side, though the bases were full and no one out. Another large crowd was in attendance, and interest is at fever heat. If all other cities hold up as well as Newnan the succes of the new Georgia-Alabama league is assured. Batteries: Newnan—Hawkins and Burden; LaGrange—Roberts and Hudson. Struck out, by Hawkins, 11; by Roberts, 7. Hits, off Newnan, 10; off LaGrange, 6. Charleston, S. C., May 6.—Columbus climbed back into third place this afternoon, when they defeated the locals by a score of 7 to 2. Catches by Winston and the batting of Fox were features.

Macon, Ga., May 6.—Voss had all the better of Robertson in today's game and the Macon club broke its long losing streak by smashing Savannah's longer winning one. Both clubs played phenomenal ball, supporting the pitchers sensationally and until the eighth inning Macon's one run lead looked pretty slim. In that inning a fierce onslaught of clean hitting by the locals, featured by Prysock's two-base clout with the bases full, netted five runs and sewed up the game.

Baumgardner's fielding and hitting featured. Bope, who was badly hurt yesterday when struck on the head by a thrown ball, was easier today, but still in a serious condition.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 6.—Wilder and Lawry engaged in a pitchers' battle this afternoon, and the former won out, the score being 2 to 0. In the first inning Klump led off with a base on balls, and with one out, Hoffman hit to the centerfield fence for a home run. These were the only runs scored during the game. In the fourth Albany had the bases full and only one out, but Wilder caused Wells to fly out to first, and he struck Wolfe out. After that the visitors were never dangerous.

Emory Baseball.

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., May 6 (Special.)—Emory's basebal race grows more interesting and the percentage stands:

	P.	W.	L.	Pct.
Freshmen	7	5	2	.711
Sophomores	6	4	2	.666
Seniors	5	2	3	.400
Juniors	6	1	5	.166

It is usually dreams that have scenes of the eleventh inning, two men out and the game won, but this dramatized in reality this afternoon when the Sophomores won from the Seniors, 1 to 0, by Porter singling, swiping the keystone bag, and scoring on a single of Stokes.

The game had lived through extra innings and looked good for more, but the usual at the inopportune for one team happens. Perryman, the elongated twirler who goes to the New York Giants, was rapped on for seven hits, while he fanned nine. Summers worked steady for the Sophs, and only let up three scattered hits, struck out twelve and didn't pass a single batter.

The second game was all the more exciting because the Juniors broke a losing streak; in fact, won their first game of the season. In the eighth, when Saxon walked, Lester, the southpaw twirler, tripled, scoring one, and he scored in a second on a wild pitch. Lester hit two triples out and Battle got one.

PUT HIS HEAD ON RAIL AND WAITED FOR TRAIN

Troy, N. Y., May 6.—Frank Brown, of Cohoes, aged 92 years, committed suicide today by placing his head on a rail as a passenger train on the Delaware and Hudson railroad was approaching. His head and one arm were severed.

"Would Not Trade Hal Chase For Ty Cobb or Sam Crawford" —Frank Chance

Detroit, Mich., May 6.—When the New York American league team reached Detroit this afternoon Manager Frank Chance was asked if there was a possibility that First Baseman Hal Chase might be traded to the Detroit team.

"I am willing to trade Chase to Detroit providing I get a fair exchange," said Chance.

"What do you consider a fair exchange?" was asked.

"I can't tell. I know of but two men on the Detroit team—Crawford and Cobb."

"Would you trade Chase for Crawford?"

Chance shook his head.

"Would you trade him for Cobb?"

"No."

"Well who would you trade him for?"

"There are two men on the Detroit team who would comprise a fair exchange."

From this eonversation it would seem that Manager Chance was not very willing to consider a deal for Chase.

"Every team in the league would be very willing to take Chase, but none of them is willing to give me more than three or four substitute players in exchange," said Chance.

Boston, May 6.—With Wagner back in the game, Pittsburg was defeated by Boston today in a ten inning contest, the score being 3 to 2. The finish was sensational. Sweeney led with a single in the tenth inning. Titus sacrificed and Kirke, batting for Mann, lifted a high one to left. Carey came tearing in for the fly and as he caught it, bumped into the fence at the end of the bleachers, the ball falling over. Sweeney came home with the winning run and Kirke was credited with a double.

Philadelphia, May 6.—Wingo went to bat in the seventh inning of today's Philadelphia-St. Louis game as a pinch hitter for Steele with the bases full and two out, and made a two-base hit which drove in two runs, St. Louis finally winning by 3 to 1. While Wingo was at bat Umpire Klem alled an extra ball on Seaton, who had replaced Brennan in this inning, with two men on bases and one out, for delaying the pitch and there was a lively argument after the hit was made. St. Louis hit the ball hard, but fast fielding and the catching of base runners off the bags kept their score down.

New York, May 6.—The New Yorks ended their losing streak today when they beat Cincinnati in a slugging match, 8 to 6, Tinker's team, however, played a great uphill game. Both Suggs and Tesreau, who started, were easy. Demaree saved the game for New York in the seventh. He went in with the bases full and retired the side with only one run scored on him. Snodgrass' muff of Linker's fly was responsible for the two runs scored off Demaree in the eighth. Shafer hit safely every time up, while Merkle and Herzog each hit safely three times. Tesreau cleaned the bases in the fourth with a triple. Catcher Johnny Kling joined the Cincinnati team here today.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 6.—Brooklyn took the first game of the Chicago series 4 to 3 today, Dahlen out-guessing Evers in a battle of managerial wits over pinch hitters. In the seventh, with the score 3 to 2 in favor of Chicago, Wheat led off with a scratch hit, moved up on Daubert's out and scored the tying run on singles by Smith and Fisher, the latter taking second on the throw-in. Erwin was sent to bat for Miller and was passed intentionally. Evers apparently expecting Ragan to come next. Instead Dahlen called on Hummel, who furnished the hit that scored the winning run. A fast double play prevented further scoring. Rucker held Chicago safe in the last two innings. A pass, two hits and a wild pitch gave the visitors their three runs. Hank O'Day made his 1913 debut as an umpire and gave general satisfaction.

Additional information in regard to the death of John Galivan, a member of Company L, of the Seventeenth infantry, who was run over and killed Monday night near the fort, shows that it was not a train of the Central of Georgia railroad, but one of the Western & Atlantic road that crushed him. The railroad tracks in that section run side by side and it was the first impression that a Central train had killed the man.

PULASKI BANK CASHIER IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

Statesboro, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—After deliberating for six hours the jury in the case of the state against O. M. Warren, charged with embezzlement, returned a verdict last night at 10 o'clock of not guilty. The case grew out of the failure of the Citizens' Bank of Pulaski, of which Mr. Warren was cashier, and he was said to be the man that "put the 'bank' in bankruptcy."

An auditor was employed by the directors and Mr. Warren was checked up $21,000 short. Failing to raise the required bond he was put in Bulloch county jail and stayed there for some time, later raising bond.

The defense was represented by Judges Hines, of Atlanta; J. J. E. Anderson, of Statesboro, and J. D. Kirkland, of Metter, and during his argument to the jury Judge Hines stressed the law covering confessions.

The case was called Saturday morning and went to the jury Monday afternoon. It is the first time in many years superior court has been extended into the second week. The jury was tied up Sunday on the evidence, during which time the jurors were given automobile rides by the bailiff twice. The verdict of acquital was no surprise, as the statement of the principal witness for the state was shattered by Judge Hines for the defense.

TABLET IS UNVEILED TO FATHER OF AVIATION

Washington, May 6.—Seventeen years ago today a model of the heavier-than-air flying machine took wings from a secluded spot on the Potomac, flew more than a mile under its own steam and marked the beginning of a new era in aviation. Its inventor, Professor Samuel P. Langley, continued his experiments to build a machine that would carry a man, but finally he died of a broken heart, some of hs friends say, because of ridicule heaped upon him.

But at the Smithsonian institution a group of scientists, whose names are known to the world, gathered to unveil a tablet to his memory as the father of advanced aviation, and to present medals to Glenn Curtis and Gustave Eiffel, who have carried on the work Langley left off. Curtis was present but Ambassador Jusserand received the medal for Eiffel. Later at the army war college an exhibition of flying boats was given. Army and navy officers carrying on the development of aviation were present and many of the notables of Washington life came to pay homage to the memory of Langley.

RECIPROCAL SCHEME FOR FIRE INSURANCE

Jefferson City, Mo., May 6.—Superintendent of Insurance Revelle, today licensed twenty-two reciprocal insurance companies to write fire insurance in Missouri. The companies are organized under the reciprocal plan, which contemplates the insurance among firms of their own risks.

Risks ranging from $4,000 to $8,000 can be assumed by the companies, but these risks are limited to a single class of business, and no company can do a general insurance business. No single risk is to exceed 10 per cent of the total assets of the members of the company issuing the insurance.

The law authorizing the organization of reciprocal insurance companies was passed two years ago. Under the plan each firm joining a reciprocal insurance company is expected to pay in premiums about what it would pay to an old-line insurance company.

The only salaried officer of each company will be the agent. Superintendent Revelle said today that the expenses of reciprocal insurance companies never are more than 10 per cent of the amount paid in.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

LEAD REAL ESTATE ....

Tuesday was the most active day that the Atlanta real estate market has seen in several weeks. This was due in part to the legal sales Tuesday morning before the court house door, but also to a number of sales announced by agencies. Altogether the market is apparently improving.

Plaster's Bridge Road Sale.

J. S. Gaines, of the L. C. Green agency, has sold for R. D. Dorsey to H. S. Harper, Mr. Dorsey's home place on Plaster's bridge road, for a consideration of $13,000.

This property has a frontage of 230 feet, with a depth of 800 feet. It lies near the junction of Peachtree road.

Fifteenth Street Sale.

Mr. Gaines has also sold to a client three lots on Fifteenth street for a consideration of $16,000. The lots front 50 feet each and lie at the corner of Center street.

W. F. Plane, also of the L. C. Green agency, has sold to Mrs. W. B. Crouch a lot in Atkins park for a consideration not given. Plans have been drawn for a handsome residence to be constructed on the lot at once.

James Street Sale.

O. D. Gorman, of the J. R. Smith and J. H. Ewing agency, has sold for the Greenfield estate to P. J. Baker a lot on James street for $9,200.

This lot lies on the south side of the street, between Spring and Cain streets. It has a frontage of 40 feet with a depth of 53 feet.

Legal Sales.

A good sized crowd attended the legal sales before the courthouse door Tuesday morning, and a number of interesting sales were made.

They were as follows:

Brookhaven Property Knocked Down.

The Brookhaven estates formally bid in the property of the Brookhaven club at the figure of $90,000. Of this amount $88,000 was represented by the real estate and $2,000 by the furnishings.

Whitehall and Forsyth Sales.

Much interest was shown in the sale of an equity in the property at Nos. 241-3 Whitehall street, the property of Moise De Leon, which was offered by Turman, Black & Calhoun, as agents for the bankrupt court.

This property has a frontage of 52.33 on Whitehall street, a depth of about 250 feet through to Forsyth street, where there is a frontage of 107.5 feet.

The equity amounted to $5,000, and it was bought by Dr. W. J. Blalock for $1,500. He assumed $30,000 due on the property, and $1,365 of accrued interest, which made the total price to him $32,865. This is at the rate of a little over $600 a front foot.

For the same owner, Turman, Black & Calhoun sold a third interest in an equity held by Mr. De Leon in the northwest corner of Forsyth and Castleberry streets. The equity, which amounted to $3,800, was bought by Joseph Loewus for $1,950.

Roff Sims offered for the estate of L. P. Thomas a lot on the west side of South Forsyth street, between Brotherton and Garnett streets. It was bought by J. M. McCord for $265 a front foot.

The lot has a frontage of 52.7 and a depth of 202 feet to an alley. Mr. Sims also sold two renting parcels on Hightower street, near Humphries, to J. H. Ewing for $1,350.

Sales Confirmed.

Two important sales were also made at the court house in confirmation of sales already made.

A. J. and H. F. West sold for Governor Brown to A. G. Rhodes and J. J. Haverty, 35-7 Decatur street, the sale of which had been previously announced, for $70,000.

J. H. Ewing bought from the Logarmasino estate a parcel on the northeast side of Carnegie way, adjoining the state mansion property, for $54,000. This property has a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 163 and 215 feet. This sale was announced some time ago.

A. J. and H. F. West sold at the court house the following lots of the Richards estate at Fourteenth, State and other streets.

Lot 2 to Thomas Francis for $972.

Lot 3 to Mrs. Romie C. Abbott for $877.50.

Lot 4 to Mrs. Romie C. Abbott for $931.50.

Lot 5 to Mrs. Romie C. Abbott for $1,012.50.

FIRE AND DYNAMITE USED BY THE WOMEN

London, May 6.—While the members of the house of commons were entering parliament this afternoon to discuss woman's suffrage bill, newsboys thrust "extras" at them, announcing what seems to be the most destructive work the militant suffragettes have yet accomplished.

St. Catherine's church, at Hatcham, in the southeastern part of London, one of the finest church edifices in the suburbs, caught fire soon after noon in a mysterious way and was destroyed. The interior of the church, which was built in 1893, was like a seething furnace a few moments after the flames were discovered. The roof fell in half an hour afterward and the tumbling masonry seriously injured a fireman.

The vicar, the Rev. Howard J. Truscott, when asked about the cause of the fire, said:

"I cannot ascribe it to any other than those delightful ladies."

The vicar visited the church at noon when he noticed three women in the building. He supposed them to be praying. He now believes that they arranged the fire and thinks explosives must have been used to aid in the destructive work.

A mysterious attempt to explode a bomb was made early this morning outside the Grand hotel, opposite Trafalgar square, where the suffrage disturbances took place on Sunday. The hotel was crowded with American tourists. A policeman saw a woman deposit a can with a lighted fuse in front of the door. He abandoned the bomb after extinguishing it by trampling on the fuse and then pursued the women. He caught a woman whom he supposed to be the culprit and when brought up in court gave her name as Ada Ward. Investigation proved her to be a night prowler, who had often been brought up in the police court. She denied planting the bomb, which disappeared while the policeman was chasing her.

Miss Nina Boyle and Miss Anna Munro, militant suffragettes who were arrested while attempting to hold a meeting in Hyde park, when brought up at court today chose fourteen days' imprisonment in preference to the payment of a fine of $5 each.

25 PERSONS WOUNDED IN A STRIKE BATTLE

Syracuse, N. Y., May 6.—Determined efforts are being made here tonight to settle the strike of building laborers which today developed a series of riots in which twenty-five persons, nine of them policemen, were wounded.

The strikers met this afternoon with Seasare Sconfetti, Italian consular agent at Rochester, who came to Syracuse and appointed a committee to wait on the employers with a view of arbitrating the wage dispute. The contractors have signified their willingness to arbitrate.

Order was restored with the first negotiations for a settlement, and the three local companies of state militia, which had been called out during the riot, had nothing to do.

The strike started last Thursday when the demand of 2,500 laborers and hod carriers for increased wages was rejected.

The strikers, mostly foreigners, had paraded the streets daily and this morning 500 attempted to force workers from a structure in front of the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in the heart of the city.

Policemen and a fire company were rushed to the scene and were greeted with a volley of bricks, stones and clubs. The police, to frighten the strikers, fired their revolvers into the air, but when the rioters continued their charge the officers fired at the strikers. The police took twenty-five prisoners, ten of whom were hurt, three seriously.

During the fight one policeman's skull was fractured and his condition is serious. Eight other officers were cut and bruised.

Giuseppi Vasta was shot through the abdomen and his recovery is not expected. Martin Lull, a spectator, was shot in the shoulder.

Other clashes occurred in which several persons were slightly injured.

SOLDIERS PARADING STREETS OF BLUEFIELD

Bluefield, W, Va., May 6.—Militiamen are parading the streets and excitement is high here today as a result of a hotly-contested city election. In one ward owing to a dispute as to the election of officers no votes are being cast. Governor Hatfield has been asked for another company of militia to preserve order.

At midnight the excitement had subsided and the city was comparatively quiet. While the local military company, it is said, will be held on duty tonight, the request wired Governor Hatfield for additional militia forces was canceled.

The selection of E. E. Carter, republican, and J. B. Shumate, democrat, as members of the board of control will be contested, it is probable, on account of one ward not voting.

Woman's Edition Subscriptions Secured From All the States

At an enthusiastic meeting yesterday morning of the women workers on the woman's edition of The Constitution to be published by the Federation of Women's clubs in June, reports were read which indicated that women are the greatest of publicity agents, for they have secured subscriptions for their edition in every state in the union.

Mrs. Harvey Jordan returning from Washington city, brought this message to the meeting, she having been present at the national council meeting, where several thousand club women were present.

Through United States Senator Hoke Smith subscriptions were placed with the United States senators, with members of the cabinet, and with many members of congress. Mrs. J. J. Printup, of Rome, Ga., is getting subscriptions in Washington city, and there are several representatives in New York city, who report a large list of contributions.

Mrs. Robert J. Lowry, chairman of the committee banks, made report of the banks which have taken advertisements, and stated that her work would be finished within the week. A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Lowry for her excellent work.

Mrs. Samuel M. Inman made an interesting report relative to the department of art, of which she is the editor, in the woman's edition. She stated that contributions to the department would be made by men and women interested in the development of an art spirit in Atlanta and the south. Only three art museums exist in the southern states, she stressed, one in New Orleans, one in Charleston and the Telfair Art museum of Savannah.

She showed the catalogue of the museum which was most creditable and she urged upon the ladies present to work to the end for such an institution in Atlanta. It is her purpose to set forth in the woman's edition plans by which renewed interest may taken in Atlanta along these lines.

Mrs. Inman has had many beautiful designs submitted to her in the contest for the $50 prize, for the best cover design for the woman's edition. The contest will be decided this week, and the announcement made by the committee of judges to be appointed by her as president of the Atlanta Art association.

Mrs. John K. Ottley made an interesting announcement of the excellent opportunity the clubs will have to exploit their activities in the woman's edition, and noted the fact that the woman's edition will carry contributions from the most celebrated women in the country.

Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale, manager of the department of advertising, read reports from various committees and announced the names of all advertisers with the woman's edition up to date, these names listed to be sent to the club women of the state. Mrs. Massengale made valuable suggestions to her committees in finishing up their work. Reports were read from the club women of College Park and Decatur, Mrs. Hamilton, of Decatur, reporting for the Woman's club there. Mrs. Price-Smith brought in an inspiring report, and a large number of advertisements.

Mrs. Arthur Powell, chairman of the department of circulation, made an inspiring report, announcement being made of the organization of the junior circulation committee, with Mrs. S. C. Dobbs the head. This committee has elected Miss Lucile Dennis as chairman, and reported a large meeting Tuesday, 200 subscriptions the result, with a well planned campaign for future work.

Mrs. A. P. Coles, city editor of the edition, reported that her staff for local work had been appointed, and is organizing for work. Mrs. Coles reported severa excellent advertisements she had secured, the spirit of the women wokers being to do their part in every department of the paper.

Mrs. Frank Nealey addressed the Woman's club of Cedartown Tuesday in the interest of the woman's edition, and Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson is visiting a number of the north Georgia clubs presenting the work of the edition.

No Dreams Ever Dreamed By Ambidexterous Persons

Washington, May 6.—The ninth triennial congress of American Physicians and Surgeons began its sessions here today, the meetings being presided over by Colonel William C. Gorgas, the United States army surgeon, who made the canal zone inhabitable. At the same time the fourteen component bodies of the congress began sessions, at which many techincal papers on subjects of great interest to the profession were read.

The congress at its initial session had under discussion a study of renal functions with reference to various phases of rheumatism and kidney ailments. Papers were read by Doctors Henry A. Christian, of Boston; Theodore C. Janeway, of New York, and Leonard G. Rowntree, of Baltimore.

At the meeting of the American Neurological association, Dr. E. W. Scripture, of New York, attracted much attention with a paper on "The Dreams of a Sleep Talker," in which he discussed the nature of dreams generally. He said that ambidexterious persons never dream, while righthanded persons dream with the right hemisphere of the brain because they use the left brain lobe for conscious thinking. Comparatively speaking, he said, modern scientists know as little about dreams as man did when the first sleeper had his first dream.

Tonight the members of the congress listened to a paper on the sanitation of the Panama canal and its relation to sanitation of the tropics generally, read by Dr. Gorgas. The meeting was followed by a reception.

MORE HOMES NEEDED FOR PRESBYTERIANS

"We expect to line up accommodations for 200 more commissioners between now and Thursday," said J. K. Orr last night at the conclusion of the day's canvass for home entertainment for the visiting Presbyterians. He anticipates that of the 200 homes yet to be secured at least half will be from denominations other than Presbyterian.

"We don't want any one to wait for the committee to call upon them," said Mr. Orr. "They can have their invitation listed if they telephone convention headquarters at Main 3736, or they can telephone me at my office."

Thursday afternoon the final reports will be made in the matter of securing homes for the visitors who will attend the Presbyterian assemblies this month. The ladies' committees will meet at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Capital City club as the guests of Mr. Orr.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

MARCH COTTON MADE ONE POINT ADVANCE

But the General List Closed Unchanged to 5 Points Lower.

New York, May 6.—After an early rally, the cotton market turned easier, on reports that desired rains were appearing in sections of the eastern belt, and closed at practically the lowest point of the day. The final tone was steady, with March one point higher, but with the general list net unchanged to 5 points lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1@2 points, in response to somewhat disappointing Liverpool cables, and there seemed to be a few overnight selling orders around the ring, which may have been inspired by yesterday's reports of prospective curtailment in some of the Fall River mills. Offerings were well taken at the initial figures, however, and the market soon steadied on covering, foreign buying and support from local bulls or reactionists who were talking an oversold market and predicting that the complaints of dry weather in the eastern belt might turn into a new crop scare. The market rallied rather sharply on this buying, which was also encouraged by the much more optimistic news from the Balkans and reports that the continent had been a good buyer of new crop months in Liverpool.

After selling about 7 to 9 points net higher, the advance was checked by official forecasts, indicating that the rains in the western belt would work eastward, and realizing by recent buyers for a turn. The weekly report of the weather bureau, indicating that recent rains had put the soil in fine condition in Texas and Oklahoma, was considered favorable, but, owing possibly to its mention of dry weather east of the Mississippi river, stimulated no immediate pressure of consequence, with the market showing very little feature in the afternoon. Reports were received of rains in Mississippi and Alabama, and houses with New Orleans and eastern belt connections became heavy sellers. Prices then eased off quiet sharply from the continued covering by old shorts, and a moderate demand from trade sources. moderate demand from trade sources.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 6.—After our market had advanced under buying orders from Europe, heavy selling orders appeared from what is usually called Waldorf sources, whic hclosed it below last evening. The sentiment, both north and south, is most pessimistic, so that people wonder who absorbs the offerings. It comes from Europe, where the belief is spreading that the settlement of the Balkan question is in sight and that the outlook is for commercial activity under peaceful conditions. Here the expectation of industrial depression, under the tariff revision, is widespread and at the moment nothing else is heard. Merchants naturally buy as little as possible. Our stock is moving to Europe. We see no reason to change our estimate that 50,000 bales of cotton are in process of shipment.

WHEAT PRICES SLUMP ON CROP ESTIMATES

Chicago, May 6.—Prospects of the greatest winter wheat crop America ever produced today brought a sharp drop in prices. The close was weak, at a net loss of 1⅛ to 1¼. Corn finished at a net decline of ½ to 5-8, oats at ¼ to 1-4 and 3-8 and provision at 2½ to 30.

Expectation that the government's report, due Thursday, would substantiate previous expert estimates, that the coming wheat crop will be a record breaker, was the chief bearish factor. Lower cables, however, based on the improved European political situation, also had influence in the break, which began at the opening of business. The course of wheat prices was uniformly downward, rallies being few and inconsequential. Bearish sentiment was so pronounced that such a significant bullish factor was a decrease of more than 11,000,000 bushels in the world's visible supply was ignored. Nearly half of the decrease was in the European supply. The market was draggy for the greater part of the session. Primary receipts of wheat today 851,000 bushels, last year, 340,000 bushels. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equally 231,000 bushels.

Despite stubborn early support corn developed a heavy tone. Poor cash demand toward the close, after some activity, depressed values. Rapid progress in planting also lowered prices.

Slim cash demand was a factor in weakening oats.

The heaviest loss in provisions was 30 cents on July lard, under influential selling. This took strength from the entire list.

STOCKS WERE WEAK AND MADE DECLINES

Southern Pacific Dropped Five Points and Union Pacific Lost Three Points.

New York, May 6.—Under much the same conditions as prevailed yesterday, when stocks moved strongly upward, the market fell back today. The improvement of yesterday was ascribed primarily to easing of the tension in the European political situation and the strength of the foreign markets, but the cheerful tenor of the cable advices and further advances in securities abroad were ignored today. More emphasis was laid on teh unfavorable features of the present situation and sentiment became increasingly bearish.

Evidences of slowing down in business attracted more attention by reason of the closing of several New England textile mills. The Harriman stocks were especially heavy, owing to the necessity imposed by the supreme court of complying with the dissolution decree by July 1. There was a general disposition on the part of traders to sell stocks and, although the supply seemed to originate chiefly in bear offerings, no concerted support was given, and little opposition was encountered in extending operations for the short account.

Prices of American stocks were marked up in London before the opening here, but purchases in this market for foreign account were comparatively small. The international stocks were heaviest in the early trading, but the depression gradually spread over the list and several of the inactive stocks made new low records for the year. Among the important stocks there were numerous losses of 1 to 3 points. Southern Pacific dropped nearly 4 points to 94 1-4, the bottom figure for five years. Union Pacific fell 3 points. Th elocal traction shares were weak.

Engagement of $2,000,000 more gold for Paris was announced late in the day and was a factor in the increased heaviness of the market at the close. The renewed outflow of gold was regarded as distinctly unfavorable by some bankers who had expected that with the restoration of peace in the Balkans in sight, this country might recover part of the gold shipped to Europe earlier in the year.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,772,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money and Exchange.

New York, May 6.—Money on call steady at 2½@3 per cent.; ruling rate, 2½; closing bid, 2¾; offered at 2¾.

Commercial bills, $4.83.

Mexican dollars, 48.

Government bonds steady; railroad bonds irregular.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED BY APPLING MOB

Harlem, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Feeling against drunken negroes who have marauded and fired guns of nights in the vicinity of Martinez culminated early Tuesday morning in the lynching of John Henry Moore, a negro, who was taken from the Columbia county jail at Appling, and hanged to a tree.

The crowd was very orderly and made so little noise that the sheriff, who was sleeping nearby, was not awakened and knew nothing about the hanging until he found the body of the black on the tree this morning.

Numerous complaints have come from Martinez, near the Richmond county line, of disorders caused by negroes, after they had drunk blind tiger liquor, and Sheriff Crawford went there Saturday to investigate matters. When he attempted to arrest a gang of blacks whom he found cursing and firng pistols he was shot upon and could not hold his prisoners.

He returned Sunday and arrested John H. Moore, Ruben Avery and Sim Avery, three blacks who had resisted him Saturday night. The negroes were placed in an iron cage inside the Appling jail. Sheriff Crawford says there was no sign of trouble when he went to bed at 10 o'clock Monday night. Having been up for two nights, he slept very soundly and had no knowledge of the lynching until the morning.

ANOTHER VICTIM ADDED TO NEGRO'S DEATH ROLL

Barnwell, S. C., May 6.—A message from Clyo, Ga., to Sheriff Morris, received late this afternoon, stated that Richard Henry Austin, the Hampton county fugitive who has been hunted by possees numbering hundreds since last Wednesday, when he killed two white men and mortally wounded a third, who has since died, has been located in the swamps near Clyo, where he has added another victim to his death list.

The message came while Sheriff Morris was in Florence, S. C., where he was advised a man answering Austin's description had been arrested. This suspected proved not to be Austin, however. The report from Clyo was to the effect that a crowd was close on the heels of Austin, but that bloodhounds and reinforcements were urgently needed to effect his capture.

The information was immediately transmitted to Sheriff Morris at Florence, and that officer promptly telephoned to his deputy here to get the dogs from the chaingang and, with a posse, proceed to Fairfax, where he would meet them, the party going on to Clyo. The deputy hastened to carry out his instructions and left by automobile at 11:30 tonight.

The message from Clyo was sent, it seems, to Policeman Alfred Dunbar, of Allendale, who immediately informed the sheriff's office here of the reported situation.

Beyond the statement that the posse was close behind Austin and that he had killed another white man, the message received here brought no particulars.

SLAYER OF WIFE JAILED FOR LIFE

I. W. Williams, Aged 64 Years, to Spend Remaining Days on Prison Farm for Murdering Wife.

Rome, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—I. W. Williams, 64-year-old slayer of his wife, Mrs. Henrietta Williams, was sentenced today to life imprisonment at the state farm. The jury bringing a verdict of guilty, with recommendation to mercy after ten minutes deliberation. The defense's plea of insanity and the age of Williams were contributing factors to the leniency, the defense's attorney admitting in his speech before the court that the crime was so "unprovoked that no sane man would have committed it."

The attempt of Williams to comit suicide by drinking laudanum just before arrested, and testimony of a number of witnesses as to his "queer actions" were introduced by the defense, the state putting up only one witness, Mrs. Williams' adopted daughter, an eye witness to the tragedy in March.

Williams' statment was remarkable. He said "since my first wife died I have known no peace. I have wandered alone. If I killed this last one I do not know. I am ready to die, too. Life has no satisfaction for me."

Williams went to the home of his wife from whom he had separated several weeks, and asked that she return to live with him. She refused and he asked for the custody of their children, which she likewise refused. Without warning he drew a pistol and shot her four times. Leaving the house he went across the fields shooting at her son, whom he met and who took safety in flight. He went to the home of another relative of his wife, and with drawn weapon demanded entrance, but was refused. Just before arrested he drank two ounces laudanum, and was saved after reaching the county jail, the officers making the trip in record time. Previous to the crime he had been making efforts through the court to secure his children from Mrs. Williams. The case will probably not be appealed.

WALLACE DID NOT TELL OFFICERS ABOUT STILL

Stating that he feared that his house would be burned down and that physical injury would result to him, H. H. Wallace, a resident living near Ben Hill, over whose telephone the report of the illicit still was made Sunday afternoon to police officers, requested last night that it be announced in The Constitution that he was not the man who "squealed" on the moonshiners.

The men who were arrested near the still after a battle between them and the county policemen, were two negroes, and it was stated by the officers that three other negroes made their escape in the darkness, but the belief seems to be that white men were interested in the operation of the still and that the negroes were merely working for them. It is believed from Mr. Wallace's statement of his anxiety over the report that has got out that he was the informer, that he and other citizens think that white men were behind the illicit distillery.

"It was not even a resident of Ben Hill, but two men from Campbell county, who turned in the report," Mr. Wallace stated in discussing the matter. "They came to my place of business and used my telephone as others sometimes do, and that is the only way in which I was connected with the affair."

JUST BREAD AND WATER FOR TOTS OF STRIKERS

New York, May 6.—Bread and water are declared to have been the sole food for three days for some of the children of the striking silk mill workers of Paterson, N. J. Their plight was related by the little ones themselves to New York families who adopted them pending settlement of the labor controversy. In an automobile truck 77 boys and girls reached this city from Paterson late today and at Labor temple were distributed among persons who promised to care for them. They were brought here by the Industrial Workers of the World, which is conducting the Paterson strike.

About 160 Paterson children are now being cared for here. Strike leaders who brought them, said 150 more will arrive Sunday.

Trying to End Strike.

Paterson, N. J. May 6.—Mayor McBride's citizens' committee of 25, appointed to seek means of ending the silk mill strike, now in its eleventh week, decided tonight on its course of action. Three subcommittees were appointed. The first will investigate the causes of the trouble, confer with manufacturers and dyers and prepare suggestions for settling the strike; the second will place the suggestions before the parties to the controversy; the third will raise funds to carry on the work of settling the trouble.

Early conferences will be urged in view of declarations by the city's business interests that Paterson faces a crisis. Anarchy is being openly preached in the city streets, members of the mayor's committee reported.

Summit, N. J., May 6.—Silk strikers and sympathizers, women and children among them, attacked twenty-five strikebreakers here tonight. The police dispersed the mob after the strikebreakers had defended themselves in a hand-to-hand clash. Several persons were injured.

GOSSIP AT CAPITOL

Fears Lynching of His Client.

In his argument before the supreme court yesterday morning in the case of Nick Wilburn, who wants a change of venue when he is tried for killing James King, Attorney John R. Cooper, of Macon, said he greatly feared his client would be lynched if tried in Jones county, where the murder occurred. He said the people of Jones county had made up their minds that Wilburn is guilty and they want to se him hanged.

The case was appealed when the lower court refused a change of venue under the new law which makes fear of mob law a ground for a trial in another county.
